

Getting in Gear

High Gear is a fast-action maneuver game for from two to four players. In competition, players dial their moves on the Dial Gear, trying to figure out which way the gears will turn to advance their pegs and, at the same time, send backward their opponents' pegs. This game comes with a high-impact plastic game board with multi-colored gears, 20 plastic pegs stored in a special compartment, and an easily-understood illustrated rule book.

Surprise Him With New Hat

Since the average man needs a new hat months before he'll actually go out and buy one for himself, there's a wonderful opportunity to surprise him at Christmas time with a useful and fashionable gift.

New hats for men follow the dominant trends in men's clothing. They come in smaller shapes and darker tones. The narrower brims and tapered crowns now so fashionable are more becoming to most men than any style in recent years.

If there is any doubt about size or color or style, the gift-giver need risk taking no chances. Gift certificates for a man's hat, available in most stores, will do the trick.

HAT GIFT certificates in many instances actually furnish the giver an opportunity to give two gifts in one. Usually the certificate is accompanied by miniature hat box or hat that serves over the long term as dresser boxes, ash trays or other useful accessories.

And in addition, they're usually small enough so that they may be hung on a Christmas tree.

Science of Metal Explored in Game

Designed to stimulate career interest in the science of metallurgy, the Metal Science BOOK-LAB Set includes an 88-page manual which presents an introduction to metallurgy and its applications in science and industry, together with instructions for performing more than 100 absorbing experiments.

Compartmented trays contain 150 carefully selected components required for the experiments described. A specially designed furnace is available separately for experiments requiring accurate temperature control.
