

Lions Work on Spring Concert

chairman; Herb Fleming, house committee chairman; Ed Kurth, chairman of ticket sales, and Eugene Parmenter, president of the Birmingham Lions Club. Overseeing their work are (from left) Claude Kidd, program chairman; Ralph Alexander, general concert chairman; and Dom S. Caputo, a member of the concert committee-at-large.

Talks on Document

William B. Gregory of Franklin

will speak on "The Convention That Almost Failed" (the American constitutional convention in 1787) before the Detroit Society for Genealogical Research Saturday in the Detroit Main Library auditorium.

Birmingham Girl Sings in 80-Voice Sweet Briar Choir

Katharine Weinrich, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Albert J. Weinrich, 155 Vorn Lane, Birmingham, is among the 80 members of the Sweet Briar College Choir who sang at evening service in the National Cathedral, Washington, with the Hamilton College Choir on Sunday.

Directed by G. Noble Gilpin, professor of music, the Sweet Briar singers will take part in two events on campus Saturday during a Symposium on Religion and the Arts. They will provide choral accompaniments for a dance and vocal presentation of an original work, "Old History's Walking," and they will give a joint concert with the University of Virginia men's Glee Club.

On Mar. 16, the Choir will appear at the Fine Arts Center in Lynchburg, Va., in another performance of "Old History's Walking."

To Hear Auditions

Among the guests at the auditions for finalists in the Grinnell Foundation of Music's annual $1,000 piano award which will be held Saturday at Michigan State University will be Mrs. Vernon L. Venman of Birmingham. Mrs. Venman is president of the Michigan Federation of Music Clubs which administers the auditions.

European Art Is Topic of Course At Woman's Club

Beginning at 2 p.m. Mar. 21 and continuing weekly for eight weeks, Dr. Ernst Scheyer, professor of art history and humanities at Wayne State University, will lecture at the Village-Woman's Club on "Traditions and Transformations in European Art." The course is planned to be a comparison between traditional and modern art.

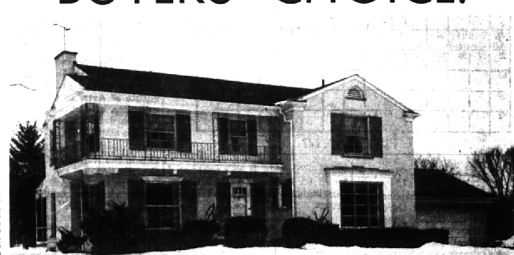

Scheyer is well-known in the area, having lived in Birmingham during the 40's and having taught at Cranbrook Academy of Arts during the period when Charles Eames, Harry Bertala, Elio and Eero Saarinen, and Carl Milles were associated with it.

He is a Curator Retired of the museums of Cologne and Breslau. He has published books and articles in English, German, Dutch and French and is assistant editor of "Criticism." He is a research fellow at the Detroit Institute of Arts and has been guest professor at the University of Michigan.

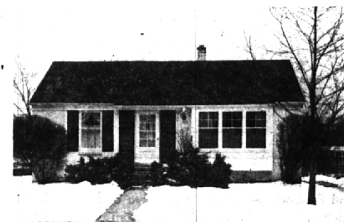

The course is open to non-members.
