O. U. Hosts Seminar On Alumni Education

A seminar on alumni education from the viewpoint of industry's needs will come from George Jacoby, director of personnel relations, General Motors Corp. and Paul D. Malbour, manager of the training department, Industrial Relations Staff, Ford Motor Co.

University administrative and faculty members joined with seminar leaders in the discussion and planning. Participating were Chancellor D. B. Varner; Dr. Donald O'Dowd, dean of the university; Dr. Lowell Eklund, associate dean for continuing education; Dr. George Matthews, associate dean for the humanities; Dr. James McKay, associate dean for the sciences; Dr. Kenneth Rose, associate dean for the social sciences; Dr. William Hammerle, director of the engineering science program; and Gary Woltsch, director of alumni education.

DR. ERNEST McMahon, Dean of Extension, Rutgers University, lead off the seminar. He has researched alumni education programs which have been tried in the United States and discussed their strong points.

Dr. Julius Nolte, dean of extension, University of Minnesota, and the senior dean of extension education in the country was another participant. Nolte conceived an educational program for women alumni of his university who wish to return to professional work after their children have grown.

The third extension education specialist was Dr. Thurman White, dean of extension, University of Oklahoma, who has studied the professional and cultural interest of adults at different stages in their lives and the educational programming needed to meet such interests.

Prose and Poetry Reading Seminar Held for Teachers

Choral and oral reading of prose and poetry will be the subject of two meetings offered Oakland County classroom teachers at 7:30 p.m. Monday and on Mar. 25.

Dr. Lamont Okey, associate professor of speech at the University of Michigan, will conduct the two seminars at the Oakland County Board of Education Building, County Service Center, Pontiac.

Dr. Harry T. Hahn, County Director of Instruction, said the materials and techniques to be demonstrated would be useful to English and reading teachers from the second through the ninth grades.

Behind the Welcome Mat

by CORRIE ABATT

Mickie, the kooky commuter cat from Harper Woods has turned into a water bug. Not long ago he accidentally plopped into the toilet while nosing around in a mug of his owner's shaving cream. One bath later he was allowed to re-enter the family circle, but now every time there's water in the bathtub, there's Mickie sitting in the middle of it.

I wonder, don't dogs ever do funny things? Lots of cat stories come this way, but never any dog ones.

MANY HOMEMAKERS get frantic if during a particularly busy time a few feathers of dust gather under the bed, some fingerprints are left on the wall and the laundry basket stays partly full. How much wiser to make the few free minutes count, accomplish as much as possible and be satisfied that you've done the best possible under the circumstances.

It is always surprising to see how quickly we adapt to modern conveniences and work savers—most of us take to them with hardly a thought backward. In fact, a friend in Sandusky, Ohio, Betty Benefield, says that when their dishwasher broke down they piled dishes in the sink for five or six meals before they remembered there was another way.

THOUGHT FOR THE DAY: It takes as much character to come through success mentally unscathed as it does to pass through failure in the same fashion.

The one lesson which parents so often try to teach their youngsters and which can only be learned the hard way, through experience, is that it is not a blessing to be able to do everything quickly and effortlessly.

Great and rewarding is the satisfaction which comes after one has struggled, made mistakes, started over and finally achieved success. Without this kind of effort there is little sense of accomplishment and no sense of satisfaction—the whole thing is often meaningless.

I LISTEN AS the children talk about their various teachers, what the teacher says and how she or he feels about certain things. Obviously when one spends the time, effort and money necessary to qualify for a teaching position one also buys a little chunk of immortality. Long after many childhood experiences have slipped from the conscious mind, a teacher's words on a subject will come drifting back.

Future Homemakers Named local winners in the 1963 Betty Crocker search for the "American Homemaker of Tomorrow" are Nancy Rae Heck, who attends Groves High School, and Karen L. Stepien, who attends Marian High School. Both are now eligible to be named "State homemaker of tomorrow" later this spring.

2 French Artists Have Exhibition At Jacobson Shop

Paintings by contemporary French artists Gabriel Godard and Charles Levier are on view through Mar. 30 at Jacobson's Studio of Fine Arts at 325 N. Woodward, Birmingham.

Both of the School of Paris painters are included in important American and European collections. The French government recently acquired a Gabriel Godard painting for the permanent collection of the French Museum of Modern Art.

The paintings are exhibited in the Jacobson Home Decorative shops from 9:30 to 5:30 p.m. daily, and until 9 p.m. on Thursdays.
