Chancel Choir Sings Out for Presbyterians

The annual service of Lenten music will be presented by the 90-voice Chancel Choir, soloists and orchestra of First Presbyterian Church at 8 p.m. Sunday.

The choir will sing Cantata No. 4, "Christ Lay in Death's Dark Prison" by J. S. Bach. This work was composed in 1708 by Bach, based on an Easter hymn by Martin Luther.

There are seven short verses describing the victory of Christ over death. Each of the verses is built on the same melody which runs throughout the work.

The choir will also sing three choruses from the Lenten portion of Handel's "Messiah." Carolyn Grimes, soprano soloist, will sing "I Know That My Redeemer Liveth," Alice Ingram, contralto, "He Was Despaired," Kenneth Ish, tenor, "Behold and See," and Amasa Tiffany, bass, "The Trumpet Shall Sound."

THE CHOR will be accompanied by string orchestra and organ. Mildred G. Ritter, associate organist of the church, will be organist for this service. L. Robert Slusser, minister of music, will conduct.

A reception is scheduled to follow the service in the social hall of the church so that guests may greet the choir and soloists.

Happenings

$200,000 to be spent on city parks, sewers and a new W. Maple bridge over the Rouge River.

In a two-hour, drag-out discussion Monday evening, about 25 property owners in the Pembroke Manor subdivision bitterly opposed the city commission's proposal to open Eton Road from Yorkshire to Derby. Commissioner Milton F. Mallender abruptly ended the arguments when he moved the necessity of the opening and his motion was unanimously supported by the other commissioners.

Appropriate observances are planned for the churches of Birmingham for Good Friday, Palm Sunday and the Holy Week. As usual, the three-hour service, beginning at noon, will be held with the members of the Methodist, Baptist and Presbyterian churches uniting. Three separate services will be held in the First Methodist Church, all woven around the theme, "The Strange Man on the Cross."
