

Play's Over: Back to Work At East Hills

By BETSY BLOSSER
Special Writer

Members of the play cast at East Hills can now stop yawning in class since they don't have to get up for practice anymore.

"Anne of Green Gables" was presented on April 26. This was the story of an elderly man and his sister who adopt a girl, Anne, and the humorous happenings as a result of the adoption.

Anne was brilliantly played by Debbie Rogers. Lynn Skinner played Marilla Cuthbert, and Eric Norman acted as Matthew, her brother. Matthew was played by Bill Pughon in the student performance. Miss Clemenze was the play's director.

That Touch of Paris

A sidewalk cafe, Napoleon's tomb and a "can can" dance were all part of an East Hills French Club play presented at the school's open house and pancake supper April 29. In addition to the play, in French, the open house also featured instrumental and choral music, gymnastic performances, displays by shop homemaking and art classes and projects of the East Hills science fair plus plenty of pancakes for more than 800 persons.

NINTH GRADE girls are attending cheerleading clinics in preparation for the high school junior varsity tryouts being held May 8 and 9.

Candidates running for student council offices at Bloomfield High School spent a ninth grade assembly on May 1.

Red and white East Hills pens were being sold last week by the home. Proceeds from the sale will go toward a stereo tape recorder for the East Hills music department.

Winners of the science exhibit shown the night of the pancake supper were announced last week. They are Tim Bassett, first prize; Marie Keisler, second prize; and Mike Keisler, third prize.

Attorney Gives Law Day Talk At Cranbrook

By JESS BREWER
Special Writer

Cranbrook recognized Law Day, the first of May in its own way, but the visible effects of this national celebration at the school first came two days late, on Friday the third, when Mr. Richard Breck, Cranbrook alumnus of the Class of 1949, and a Birmingham attorney, spoke to the Cranbrook student body on the subject of Law Day.

The address in assembly was well-presented and equally well-accepted.

THAT EVENING, the Cranbrook Ergastioner and the Kingswood Junior class staged their play "Blythe Spirit," written by Noel Coward.

The only shortage of attendance was among seniors of Page and Stevens Halls, who on Friday night were relaxing more casually at their regular "Cabin Party." Those who did see "Blythe Spirit," however, were quite happy with its humor and excellent acting.

They do doubt that all their friends, for the turnout on Saturday night was even greater than that of the night before. Those who had seen the play on Friday night went to the movie, "The Pigeon That Took Rome," on Saturday night.

WITH THIS highly enjoyable addition, the plentiful schedule of entertainment at Cranbrook last weekend was completed.

Next Saturday night is even more promising. It will bring one of the most popular events of the year, Amateur night. Plans have been developing for the last two months and more. In some cases the various talents displayed have always been considerable, and this year's promise to be unusually well-qualified.

The judges of Amateur Night will no doubt have a hard time deciding on the winner of the traditional award for first place.

'HOUSE OF ROSES' Student-Produced Play Presented at Groves

By BARB SCHIFFER
Special Writer

"House of Roses," a musical comedy sponsored by the Groves chapter of the American Field Service, was presented to students in the gymnasium the nights of May 3 and 4. The show was entirely written, directed, and produced by students.

Senior Carol Johnson wrote the musical score and lyrics for the play, which was based on the trials and tribulations of a Mexican woman with nine daughters. Starring as the mother was Bev Biondo (10th grade).

APPEARING as her nine daughters were: Pam Croves (11); Gini DuBois (12); Beth Moore (10); Luana Reihart (11); Chris Marcks (10); Tina Steele (11); Maryanne Stocker (12); Betsy Greiss (10); and Linda Inghall (10).

AFS members produced the scenery, while the girls in the show made the costumes and worked out the choreography. All profits from the musical will go towards helping finance the foreign exchange students coming to Groves next year.

The faculty and students of the science department at Groves presented an annual Science Open House from 7 until 9:30 p.m. the night of May 1.

All parents and students were invited. Exhibits were displayed from the general science, biology, chemistry, physics, and physical science classes.

'Shield' Wins First Class Rating from Press Group

By NANCY WEISWASSER
Special Writer

Bloomfield Hills newspaper, "The Shield," has been awarded a first class rating by the National Scholastic Press Association Critical Service.

This nation-wide organization's primary concern is to help high schools improve their newspapers with the aid of instructional material and a critical analysis of their members' newspapers.

EACH SEMESTER the association presents the high schools with a criticism of their newspapers. The evaluation is based on news coverage, content, and physical properties and considers each section of the newspaper separately, news, features, editorials, and sports. The service compares schools of comparable size according to the number of issues printed each semester.

The rating scale is determined as follows: All-American, 3,500 points or more; first class, 3,000-3,500 points; second class, 2,500-3,000 points; and third class, 2,000-2,500 points. "The Shield" received a score of 3,295, placing it well into the first class level.

The three scoring divisions are broken down to give a complete evaluation of a school newspaper. "The Shield" received perfect scores in feature content, editorials, sports writing, inside news pages, headlines and typography. Last year Bloomfield newspaper received a second class rating of approximately 2,200 points.

ONE HUNDRED pieces of sculpture were on display for student viewing in BIHS' arts and crafts room on April 24.

Mrs. Donna Steinstrom's Art I and craft classes presented their projects of the past month, including items of terra cotta clay, plaster of paris, ware and metals, and synthetic materials.

Their works included free standing realistic forms—busts, figures, and animals; and abstract forms—mobiles and stabiles. The sculptures will also be displayed at BIHS' May PTO meeting.

goner, and William Runniger were selected to be Northland's annual show.

The show is presented by the Oakland County Art Educators Association, and is entitled "An Eye for Art." It will be held in Northland's Geodesic Dome on May 13-15.

A BOTTLE raid was held by Bloomfield's 'B' Club April 27. Its purpose was to raise money for the high school's 1963 foreign exchange students. Close to 300 was collected.

The 'B' Club members, all varsity letter men, surpassed the Bloomfield Hills area on Saturday. Residents had been notified in advance of the bottle raid.

The club was divided into two competitive teams, headed by Kyle Kerbaway and Michael Griffin. Kyle's team was victorious, collecting the greater number of bottles. The losing team will soon be treating the entire 'B' Club to a party.
