Marilyn Nagy, home economics teacher at Seaholm High School, will be presenting Meritt Olson of Olson's Market with some strange food orders the remainder of the school term. (But Meritt says he will fill them). Mrs. Nagy's food classes have as projects the preparation of a different foreign dinner each week.

Meats native to France, the Polynesian islands, Mexico, China and Japan will be included.

A committee of three students is appointed each week to research the customs, holidays, and more of each country so that an understanding is gained for the reasons behind some of the special foods for which the different countries are noted.

A different meal course will be assigned to each of Seaholm's seven kitchens, so all students may participate.

Bob Davis of The Birmingham Travel Service is one of the actors playing in Thursday's Carnival at the Village Playhouse. It will be quite a while before we forget Bob's performance of the TV veterinarian who makes a diagnosis of all pet symptoms. (Especially of the fish with long ears). If this intrigues you, see review in Sec. D.
