Smith

He feels communication with local newspapers and school papers are vital to a successful operation of a school district.

"Administrators must get involved in public affairs," he said, "and they must let the public in on school plans."

"Communication is a two-way street," he said. "The public must present ideas in an orderly fashion."

"School people and the board of education don't know all of the answers," he said.

This & That

of civilization, and is the oldest walled inhabited city in the world. Incidentally, the water in the Jordan River at Jericho was muddy; it flows into the Dead Sea.

FINALLY, WE reached Jordan.

Jerusalem, where our guide took us to the American Colony Hotel, a friendly and wholesome small establishment, not far from the center of hilly Jerusalem.

Jordan claims to have more religious and historical monuments than any other country on earth. Though its land area includes moderate heights of the mountains of Moab, and the lesser rolling hills in Jerusalem and other nearby places. Its Jordan Valley is covered with luxuriant vegetation growth.

Most important of all, to the Christian world, is the fact that Christ upon this nation's lands Jesus Christ left the imprint of His teachings. His healings, both combining to support His Sonship with Divine Providence. For it was in Jordan's Jerusalem that Jesus was seized, tortured, crucified and where His ascension occurred.

WELL INFORMED guides are available throughout the entire Middle East to acquaint the tourists with much of the religious and historic information of an area. This was evident to my traveling pal, Herbert H. Gardner, as we motored, to Bethlehem, the birthplace of Jesus; to Nazareth, in Israel, where he lived in a grotto for 27 years with his earthly parents, Mary and Joseph; to the Sea of Galilee, to what is left of ancient Capernaum; to Gethsemane, where Judas betrayed his Master for 30 pieces of silver, resulting in His arrest; to the 14 stations of the Cross, the route over which Jesus carried the Cross; to Bethany, the home of Mary and their brother, Lazarus; to the pool of Bethesda where He healed a man of His "infirmity of thirty and eight years."

To the Mount of Olives, the Hill of Temptation (at Jericho); to numerous other places, finally to the place called Calvary, where Jesus was crucified between two thieves, and the garden of the devout Jew, Joseph of Arimathea, who entombed the body of Jesus... from which tomb... and the third day He shall rise again."

FOR IT IS REMEMBERED, it was in the land of Jordan that a simple, humble Galilean, at the youthful age of 30 years, began His three-year Messianic ministry... a dedicated and holy mission that made a greater impact upon the thinking of civilization than by any other man who ever lived. To the average thoughtful person, a visit to the Holy Land is exceedingly worthwhile. To travel over the areas of parts of Syria, Jordan and Israel, to observe, for the most part, the existence of so much desert, so great areas of limestone, so little fertile lands upon which to grow food... to read about the trials and tribulations of the various nations that have come and gone in the Middle East; to realize the hardships endured by these various peoples—yet from the environment of so much of life's negatives there came into this Jordan land a Voice that thundered belief and faith in the Goodness of God... and of mankind's creation in the image and likeness of God!

YES, TO THIS REPORTER the experience—brief as it was—of visiting the Holy Land was a most rewarding one. It is, of course, likewise to most others, too. Later on, "when the spirit moves me," I'll endeavor to write more deeply, more inspirationally, about this adventure. Our next countries to visit were Israel and Greece. Next week I'll review my travels in those historic lands.
