MRS. W. U. JOHNSTONE (LEFT) AND MRS. HOWARD MCNEILL

Exhibition of Art To Highlight Tea

Sunday afternoon a scholarship fund for some Pontiac area college student will be begun. The occasion is the annual Urban League Guild scholarship tea, staged this year between 2 and 4 in the afternoon in the home and gardens of Dr. and Mrs. Howard McNeill of Hickory Grove Road, Bloomfield Hills.

The Guild is auxiliary to the Pontiac Area Urban League, a United Fund agency.

Highlight of the event will be the exhibition of painting and sculpture created by hostess Mrs. McNeill. Mrs. McNeill, whose art instruction was received at Cranbrook and Oakland University, exhibits each year at the Scarab Club in Detroit. She is a member of the Progressive Arts club.

GUESTS AT THE Guild tea will see evidence of Mrs. McNeill's works everywhere... from the pair of plaster gulls over the patio bar and the surrealistic water colors framed in black on the kitchen wall to the mural that decorates the tropical-influenced family room.

General chairman of the event is Mrs. W. J. E. Carry, Pontiac. Mrs. Wilbur U. Johnston, 610 Southfield, Birmingham, is decorations chairman.

Mrs. William E. Essery, 747 W. Maple Road, Birmingham, was chairman of this year's scholarship committee. The scholarship was divided between two Pontiac students, Gerald Bunce and Mary Smaltz, who will enter Massachusetts Institute of Technology this fall while Miss Smaltz will begin her education at Oakland University. She plans to be a teacher.

Past Guild presidents will preside at the tea table. They are Mrs. Harry L. Riggs, 3499 Franklin road, Bloomfield Hills; Mrs. B. L. Coleman Long, Mrs. Anna Williams, Mrs. Jimmie Taylor, Mrs. Irving Gillies and Mrs. Barbour Williams, all of Pontiac.

College Wardrobes Inspire 5-Day Job

Two young saleswomen staffing the Gami Inc. booth at the Detroit Horse Show's Hunt Fair in Bloomfield Hills, June 25-30, are putting their hearts into their work.

That's because proceeds from sales will help to acquire college wardrobes for the girls. Eve Van Hentenryck and Diana Black. The pair are residents of Camp Oakland's Girls Ranch. For them and their 18 "little sisters" at the ranch, Mrs. Allen Collins of Gami Inc., Bloomfield Hills, has sponsored the booth.

Mrs. Collins' goal is to help establish a clothing fund for the Girls' Ranch occupants, ages five through 18, all of whom are wards of Oakland County Probate Court.

THE IDEA TO sponsor a booth for Camp Oakland's Girls' Ranch grew from a visit Dr. and Mrs. Collins made to the Oxford camp for underprivileged children in early spring. The girls live at Camp Oakland, near their home in Leonard, Mich., to give the boys their son's clothing.

After the high school young wards of Oakland County Probate Court who live at Boys' Ranch, the Collins were taken on a tour around the 300-acre camp, including the Girls' Ranch.

Later, Mrs. Collins said, I thought it would be a wonderful idea to take a booth for the Camp Oakland girls, and let them man it.

"I was impressed with the environment at Girls' Ranch," she said. "It's really a home, rather than an institution. The way it is decorated makes it look like an attractive home. The girls are relaxed and cordial when you talk to them, and it's as if you were a visitor in their parents' home."

WHEN MRS. COLLINS proposed her idea for a Girls' Ranch booth, Camp Oakland Women's Committee Chairman Mrs. Ben D. Mills of 780 Vaughan Road, Bloomfield Hills, asked Mrs. Lucinda Mann to coach Eve and Diana. Mrs. Mann, 355 Lehigh Park, Birmingham, will acquaint them with what every sales girl should know about beautiful china and pottery.

Spelling the two girls at the booth will be members of the Camp Oakland Women's Committee.

Eve and Diana are the first residents of the four-year-old Girls' Ranch to be graduated from Oxford High School. Eve will study interior decorating at Wayne State University and Diana will attend nursing school at Harper Hospital this fall.
