Pair Leaves For Canada After Rites

Mrs. Virginia K. Merrill was united in marriage with Stanley E. Turner in the First Presbyterian Chapel Friday.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Richard H. Kalfus of Waddington Road. The bridegroom is the brother of Mrs. H. G. Roberts of Ravine Road.

THE REV. W. Glen Harris officiated at the ceremony attended by the immediate family.

After the wedding the couple left on a ten-day Canadian trip. Upon their return they will reside at 895 Harmon Ave., Birmingham.

Pre-Nuptial Party Whirl Honors Michal Forster

By MARTI CAHN
MI 6-2890

Michal Forster, attractive daughter of Mrs. Clarence Hatch, Jr. of Bradley Blvd. and Lloyd M. Forster of Bloomfield Hills, will marry Lt. Edward Bigelow Baker, Jr., son of Dr. and Mrs. Edward Baker of Midland, on Saturday, July 13, at 11 o'clock ceremony in Saint Hugo of the Hills Church.

Parties in honor of Michal have been in full swing since her recent graduation from the University of Michigan. They began with a miscellaneous shower and dinner party given by Mrs. William Venema, Kappa Kappa Gamma sorority sister, in her Ann Arbor home. Margo Menning decided on an evening kitchen shower July 2 in the Larchlea Drive home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Paul Menning.

SUNDAY WAS an important day when bridegroom Ted, who has been at sea, flew into town from Jamaica. Mr. and Mrs. Norman Miller waited for his arrival to honor the couple at a cocktail party and bar shower given in their Grose Pointe home (Mrs. Miller is the former Carol Rouse of Cranbrook Road and will be a bridesmaid). Tonight Mr. and Mrs. Robert B. Richardson (Mrs. Richardson is Michal's maternal grandmother) are entertaining at a dinner party at their residence on Hickory Heights Drive.

Dr. and Mrs. Baker are hosting the rehearsal dinner at the Orchard Lake Country Club tomorrow evening. The wedding reception is to be at the Oakland Hills Country Club.

"Them that has, gets!" certainly applies to sixteen-year-old Susan Judd, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Jesse P. Judd of 1322 North Glenngary Road, Bloomfield Village. Susan, as a Bloomfield Country Day School student, has what it takes to receive the school's Clara Vanderkloot award (an honor for the best all-round undergraduate student). She also has what it takes to be one of two Birmingham students to win the recent Tim e magazine current affairs contest.

These outstanding awards are incidental, however, in comparison to the thrill of attaining the age sweet sixteen, which Susan celebrated, as hostess, at a summer formal dinner dance Friday, July 5.

THE "SWEET Sixteen" party took place in a private dining room of the Oakland Hills Country Club with Kenny Poole's Lancers providing music for dining and dancing.

Tables for six were adorned with pink cloths, white candelabra decorated with pink roses and tapered pink candles, an appropriate setting for regal Susan, who wore a short-length gown of turquoise organza accented with exquisite white embroidery. Her dancing pumps matched the turquoise shade of her party dress; Bob Stevenson was Susan's escort and Nancy Judd (sister) attended the party with Dick Gibbs.

AMONG OTHERS were Sandy Slaver, Eric Linder, Maggie Plock, Dean Eyles, Tom McKenny, Alice Colombo, Donna Richardson, Tom Mininger, Diane Richardson, Denise Chambers and Larry MacDonnell, all of Birmingham and Bloomfield.

MR. AND MRS. James R. Smead with children Ellen, 9; Jane, 6, and two-year-old Jimmy arrived yesterday at their new home in Waterloo, Belgium (a suburb of Brussels), following five days aboard the SS United States.

Jim Smead's position with Ford International provided the exciting move and prompted a Sunday afternoon cocktail and bon voyage party given by his father, Lew W. Smead, and Mrs. Smead at their Middlebelt Road estate, Smead Meadows.

JEAN AND Lew Smead added another credit to their long record of fame for warm hospitality. Theirs was a "like-you-like-it" party. Several television sets were available for golfing fans to view the matches, some guests preferred going for a swim, others took advantage of the golf course and putting green. A buffet table was set on the screened porch of the summer house.

MRS. SAMUEL G. Johnson, Jim's sister, came from St. Petersburg, Fla. with Mr. Johnson and their four-year-old son, Samuel III. Among others present were Mr. and Mrs. William E. Holt, Jr., Mr. and Mrs. P. H. Pope, of Bloomfield; Mr. and Mrs. Chester E. Bowie, Mr. and Mrs. Pat Cornish, Mr. and Mrs. Joseph P. Stanchinaka, of Birmingham; Dr. and Mrs. Harold Longyear and Mr. and Mrs. Reed Andrews.

THE SMITHS, along with Mr. and Mrs. Jack Moses, the Jere Gillettes, the Ed Proctors, Jr. and Pete Whitlaw were originators of the idea back in the days before they were married and when it was decided to substitute this kind of wing ding for the more traditional club reunion. All five had gone to high school in Birmingham.

Sea Fare Lovers, All

Among the group reuniting at this year's party were the Ron Ballantynes—his responsible for all party decor and it's flamboyantly effective—Mr. and Mrs. Bob Aikens, Dr. and Mrs. Chuck Murray, Mr. and Mrs. Bill Underdown, Mr. and Mrs. Dave Lawrence, the Dick Hassetts, Mr. and Mrs. Pete Hoffman, Mr. and Mrs. Dick Kent, Mr. and Mrs. Dave Brennan, Mary Sue Ekelund, Al Warner, Mr. and Mrs. Steve Miller, the Fred Ottos and Mr. and Mrs. Ed Perkins. Others were Mr. and Mrs. Bill Shallberg, Mr. and Mrs. Loren Spademan, the Mark Smiths, Mr. and Mrs. George Whitehead and the Dick Wilsons. Former Birminghamites who came home for the weekend to attend the party were Mr. and Mrs. Dick Groves of Philadelphia, the Jerry Tones of Cleveland and the Ken Wrights of Chicago.

Mid-Summer Ball

Birmingham-Bloomfield members of Pine Lake Country Club are searching through attic trunks this week for suitable costumes—vintage 1902—to wear to the club's Historical Ball on June 20.

Bringing back an evening from the early pages of Pine Lake history will be Mr. and Mrs. Gilbert Hause, Mr. and Mrs. P. H. Pope, the Chris Slomans, the Albert Holcombs and Mr. and Mrs. Walt Selover.

Idea for the party stemmed from the singular origin of the club, for its site was originally chosen as the objective of the weekend automobile "runs" by Col. John Jacob Astor's Automobile Club of Michigan.

Gas Buggy Adventure

In those days, when the north boundary of Detroit was not too many blocks beyond Vernor Highway, driving a car to the hills of Pine Lake was a major adventure—so the scenic bluff overlooking the lake became an overnight camp site for hardy Detroiters who owned cars.

In 1905 the first clubhouse was built and its list of charter members included such "greats" as Henry Ford, James Couzens, John Dodge, Robert C. Hupp, E. Leroy Pelletier and Horace Rackham. Truman H. Newberry was the first president.

By 1917, with improved roads and driving skills, members had more time to enjoy themselves after a shorter drive, so seven golf holes were added. The next few years brought more additions and in 1921 the club was officially named Pine Lake Country Club.

Fiftieth Anniversary Dinner Celebration

Mr. and Mrs. A. Gustave Ostermann of Bloomfield Hills celebrated their fiftieth wedding anniversary July 3 at a family dinner party given by their children at Bloomfield Hills Country Club.

Hosts to the 30 guests were Mr. and Mrs. William Ostermann, the Frank Smiths and Mrs. Virginia Murphy.

Local Representation

Among those with reservations for the ball are the Clifford Kallstroms, who will be hosts at a cocktail party preceding festivities honoring their house guests. Dr. and Mrs. H. B. Henkel of Springfield, Ill., and Montego Bay, Jamaica. Others with reservations are Mr. and Mrs. W. B. Booth, Mr. and Mrs. John Hinkley, Mr. and Mrs. Laurens Hare.
