Paralyzed Artist Uses His Head in Paintings

An artist, paralyzed from the neck down by polio, has built a thriving business by "using his head."
Jim Wood, 41, of Charlotte, Mich., has had a whole new painting career opened to him through his own personal determination, along with the joint efforts of occupational therapists, social service workers and vocational rehabilitation coordinators at the University of Michigan Medical Center. During his one-year confinement for polio in 1957 at the U-M Medical Center, Wood revived his in-

Hunters Bag More Bears This Year

An estimated 1,185 bears were killed in northern Michigan last fall, a sharp increase over the year before, according to final results of the Conservation Department's postcard survey of hunters. Shooting success during the November firearm deer seasons accounted for last year's higher harvest, which was well above the 1961 take of 684 animals.
With moderate weather apparently discouraging the burly animals from hibernating early, hunters recorded a kill of 950 during these seasons, their highest since 1958.
ONLY 235 bears were taken during the early fall seasons, lowest figure of the last four years.
In the Upper Peninsula hunters took 660 bears during the deer seasons, compared with only 280 in 1961. Their early fall harvest dropped from 209 in 1961 to 200 last year.
Hunters in the northern lower peninsula upped their kill from 100 to 200 bears last November.
For the third year in a row, 35 bears were taken during the early bear seasons in this part of the state.
Bear stamp sales totaled an estimated 3,430 last year as against 3,575 in 1961.

Michigan Has High
Tax Capacity
In terms of income, only 12 states have greater tax capacity than Michigan, according to Dr. Alfred L. Edwards, assistant professor of economics at Michigan State University.
Measuring the success of states in tapping their capacity, he finds that Michigan is making a greater tax effort than Ohio, Indiana and Illinois and about the same effort as Wisconsin.

There's no doubt about it—this BONUS* is remarkable stuff—as so many of you have already discovered.
It takes the place of one regular lawn feeding. You walk it on with your Scotts Spreader and you can do a 5000 sq. ft. lawn in just about a half-hour.
The grass responds almost at once. It gets greener, thicker. And then one day you suddenly notice that all the dandelions and plantain have vanished—flower, leaf and root.

OUR COUNTRY ROCKING
Our Country Rocking Chair
For morning chats while shelling peas
For stringing beans, or restful teas
My Mother always chose
My country rocking chair.
Each babe in turn that came along
Was rocked to sleep to Mother's song
Lullabies were sung in
Our country rocking chair.
The evening papers Father read
Each night before he went to bed
And he always sat in
Our country rocking chair.
Granda liked to take his evening
Rocking and dozing, and humming
Hymns and old love songs in
Our country rocking chair.
At story time you'd find us there
Gathered around that big old chair
Gramps was spinning yarns in
Our country rocking chair.
And now we're grown and scattered
'round
I know that we all miss the sound
Of creaking noises from
Our country rocking chair!
