

Within every human being (some deeper than others) there exists the "seed of the Good Samaritan." It is this seed which is born of the spirit of man the potential response of good to some distressed situation. This inherent quality of the Universal Divinity (for the Bible states that "God is Love") requires, for most of us, only the visible need for the expression of Good Samaritanism... then it responds!

Quast Co. Loses Request For Convalescent Home

By KAY SMITH
Special Writer

BEVERLY HILLS—The latest of several attempts by the Alger F. Quast Co. to build a convalescent home on 13 Mile Road, west of Southfield, met with defeat Monday night at the regular council meeting.

The Quast company, through its representative, Donald Armstrong, had petitioned to have the zoning ordinance amended to include the convalescent home under Business 1 classification. A previous petition to have the property zoned to Business 2 was turned down.

The ordinance, as it stands, has no category for nursing home, and the planning board unanimously recommended, on the advice of Village Attorney Thomas J. Dillon, that it was not among the more desirable uses for B-1, and in general.

This and That

by George R. Averill

Arizona's U. S. Sen. Barry Goldwater is having a very difficult experience trying to do two things at the same time: denying his current interest in being nominated by Republicans for the presidency next year and also secretly hoping that this honor will come to him. His role is a hard one. Naturally, he wants to delay his formal answer to the question as long as he can. He well knows that to get his name and picture on the "political billboards" too early could endanger the permanency of his image; for the hot sunlight of competitive politics easily fades the political color spectrum.

Would that mankind had the stamina and the strength and the will never to cease striving for mental and spiritual growth! Would that mankind possessed the inherent stature of, for example, the famed sequoia trees of California, or of the ever-bearing two-thousand-year-old trees that give Jordan-Jerusalem its Mt. of Olives! Alas! when most of mankind reaches affluent physical nourishment, it deteriorates.

Forty-eight per cent of Russia's labor force consists of women, a goodly number being housewives and mothers. They are complaining about their "dependency" status. "What sort of a dependent are we?" writes one woman in a newspaper. "Even if we get an occasional chance to watch TV, we're knitting clothes for our children at the same time. We wash, clean, cook, darn, sew; we bring up our children, generally very well. We get no days off, no vacations. Why are we treated with such scorn?" (Well, lady, one reason is that this long has been your status, and because you live in a Communism nation can't produce enough commodities to go around. You and your fellow-gals ought to start a vigorous campaign to try capitalism!

al not compatible with the other uses under the classification.

THE COUNCIL recessed five minutes and requested the presence of John Secret, a planning board member.

Councilman Hugh G. Allerton, Jr., questioned Secret as to whether the planning board had recommended denial on the basis of this particular convalescent home, and whether they had studied the whole classification.

Councilman John Magee said: "I feel that this recommendation is based on opinion, not research, and that the planning board has not addressed itself to the question. Also, no report was submitted other than that they recommended denial on the basis of incompatible use."

ALLERTON SAID he would have liked to see the planning board propose some recommendation on the convalescent category. He suggested that perhaps some new classification, Business 3, might be set up.

With a motion to deny the petition to include the nursing home under B-1 on the floor, Allerton moved to table the motion. It failed 4-2. The petition was then denied by the same number of votes. Allerton and Magee voting "no" for denial.

IN OTHER ACTION, the village, at the request of William J. Pulte, developer for the Beechgrove Investment Co., granted permission to extend the present village water main on 13 Mile Road to Lahser Road west to the Lincolnshire Drive at the entrance to the Lincolnshire Forest Subdivision.

All costs will be borne by the developer and the money will be placed in escrow prior to commencing work.

Bar Assn. Honors Birmingham Court
Birmingham Municipal Court has been awarded an honorable mention in the 25,000 to 50,000 population category by the American Bar Association.

The award is based on improvement in the quality of the Birmingham court cases, according to Albert B. Houghton, chairman of the bar association's committee on traffic courts.

Public Hearings Set On Zoning Requests
Two public hearings were set up by Birmingham city commissioners Monday night on proposed zoning changes on properties in the city.

A Sept. 9 hearing was set on a request to rezone a lot at 711 W. Maple from E-4 (single-family) to E-4 (two-family).

thorized that traffic yield the right of way from Beechwood to Birmingham Blvd., and that Birmingham yield for Lecherbie.

Shurtleff said the survey is still in progress, and requests for breaking traffic on 13 Mile would be considered after Southfield is reopened. The survey indicated that the traffic at Marguerite and Sheridan is not sufficient to warrant signs.

AN ADMINISTRATION report by Councilman Magee on the building and property of the village hall touched on erecting a new storage building, a proposal for a new office layout and a study on air-conditioning for 1964.

The village manager, Robert E. Murphy, was authorized to seek preliminary information on estimates of cost of a storage-type building of 2,000 square feet.

Commission Finds Maple Widening Bid Acceptable
Birmingham city commissioners voted 6-1 Monday to recommend that the Oakland County Road Commission accept the low bid for the widening of E. Maple.

Commissioner David F. Breck cast the no vote because he felt the low bid of $128,916.66 was too far above the engineer's estimate of cost. City Engineer William T. Killen said the bid was about 20 per cent above the estimate.

CITY MANAGER L. R. Gare recommended that the commission approve the new bid. The county has placed a completion date of Dec. 1 on the project.

field that three lots on Lincoln between Ann and Grant be rezoned from B-2 (neighborhood business) to R-4 (two-family).

BROWNFIELD SAID Lincoln for the most part is a residential street and his department believes "every effort should be made to encourage the maintenance of the residential properties."

He said the rezoning would protect the residential amenities and would be at least reduce to a great extent the possibility of bright setting into what is presently a substantial residential area.

OK Spreading Of Rolls for Sewer Jobs

The spreading of the assessment rolls for three sewer construction projects in Birmingham was approved by city commissioners Monday night.

City Manager L. R. Gare said all the necessary permits for the construction of the S. Eton, Ruffner and Cummings sewers had been obtained.

The roll spread had been delayed by the commission for two weeks to allow time for the permits to be granted and for the administration to obtain easements from two property owners.

A PROBLEM in the S. Eton sewer design in the E. Lincoln-Eton Park area was worked out by the engineering department.

He said this was an eight-inch sewer at the east end of Lincoln and the property owned by Interstate Tool would connect into that section of the sewer.

"IT IS MY opinion that, based on the premise that there are no basements connected to this sewer, there is no need to replace the eight-inch sewer with one of a greater capacity," Killen said.

She Went on a $600 Shopping Spree

By BETH SHOTKA
Staff Writer

I bought $623.74 worth of clothes (excluding tax) in half an hour.

My father didn't hit the ceiling. Mother was calm and I didn't write a single check.

I simply walked into Jacobson's Young Timers Shop last Friday and purchased a wardrobe for my last year of college.

The whole idea started when the editor told me to visit a local store, buy all the clothes I wanted and write a story about my experiences.

THE FIRST catch was that my shopping spree would last for only one-half hour—no more. I didn't ask if I'd turn into a pumpkin at the end of the allotted time, instead I accepted it as a necessary evil.

STILL ENTHUSED, I departed on my expensive morning. After explaining my mission to David Beer, the store manager, I was assigned to Mrs. Mary Jane Palmer, who would assist me in choosing my back-to-college wardrobe.

Mrs. Palmer and I marched from one end of the store to the other selecting clothes.

A saleslady followed carrying the purchases I made. Every few minutes she returned to the counter with the clothes, where the pile was growing higher at a rapid rate.

TAKING A break from my escapade, I glanced about to see other customers whispering in small groups and looking my way.

While I was choosing the clothes I wanted to purchase, I tried to recall the college activities that merit special outfits.

The first thing that came to mind was the winter favorite—ski week ends. On Friday afternoons skiers and non-skiers alike make an exodus to the northern Michigan resorts and return in time for Monday morning classes.

Attire is an important part of these excursions, so I was outfitted by Jacobson's in stretch pants, a parka, bulky sweater and blouse.

SINCE CLASSES take up most of a college student's time, the majority of my purchases were in the casual category. I bought more than 10 complete outfits, each with a matching or contrasting skirt, blouse and sweater. Colors ranged from cranberry to camel.

When I think of classes, the first thing that comes to mind is walking. In the winter each class seems 13 miles away, while in the spring the walk to class always ends too soon.

At any rate, walking is walking, so I purchased four pairs of shoes. First, I chose a pair of white sneakers and then some loafers.

HIGHLIGHTING THE fall college season are football games. For these occasions I chose a green suede coat with a muffler matching the coat's plaid lining.

I've always been curious how I'd look in fur, but the closest I could get was a coat with a leopard collar and cuffs. A matching leopard hat caught my eye, so I donned it and glanced in the mirror.

Having acquired an affection for fur, I proceeded to wear the outfit for the remainder of my shopping adventure.

Prior to this, people had glanced my way, now they stared in disbelief.

I REALIZED that I needed slacks for sports activities and walks on the banks of the Red Cedar River. Since my whims could be satisfied on that memorable Friday morning, I purchased four pairs of slacks with matching sweaters. A pair of knickers also sneaked cleared from along the fence line.

The commission also awarded a contract for the purchase of 5,300 pounds of grass seed for the course of Hiram F. Godwin & Son, Inc., Detroit. This was also the low bid.

The contract calls for 5,000 pounds of Kentucky Blue Grass mixture and 300 pounds of Astoria

B'ham to Buy Golf Equipment

City commissioners awarded two contracts for the purchase of equipment for Birmingham's new municipal golf course and rejected another Monday night.

The commission authorized the spending of $13,535.63 for the construction of a fence around the course at Lincoln and Cranbrook roads by the Crown Fence and Supply Co. of Plymouth, Mich.

A six-foot high chain link fence will be constructed around all four sides of the course. A fence will also be constructed along the north and west side of the Bloomfield Art Association property (the Birmingham Art Center).

City Engineer William T. Killen said no fence would be built along the south side of the BAA property at this time because the exact location has not yet been determined.
