Seek Peripheral Route Progress In '64

Bloomfield Eyes Charter Township Setup

Case to Appoint Study Committee

By SAVILLA ROGAN

The history of Bloomfield Township has been so consistent in the past 30 years that it is the predominant characteristic of the township in 1964.

The governmental problems that trouble the community today for its existence as a charter township. Township Supervisor Case announced to The Bloomfield News that he will form a committee of the township's residents to study the issue of forming a charter township for Bloomfield. Case said that if a charter township is formed, the township's current organization as a county commissioner would be abolished and the residents would need to vote on the issue.

The “case” is that a charter township would give the township more control over its affairs and allow for better representation of the residents. Case said that if the residents decide to form a charter township, the township would have to hold a referendum to decide whether or not to move forward with the plan.

The township's current organization as a county commissioner would be abolished and the residents would need to vote on the issue. Case said that if the residents decide to form a charter township, the township would have to hold a referendum to decide whether or not to move forward with the plan.

In the meantime, the township is looking into ways to improve services for the residents. Case said that the township is considering the possibility of forming a charter township and that the residents should be aware of the issue.

Suburbia Today Articles

Arts and Entertainment

“Can Ski Around the World” is a story about the ski runs around the world. The article mentions that the ski runs are located in different countries and that they are popular among ski enthusiasts. The article also mentions that the ski runs are located in different countries and that they are popular among ski enthusiasts.

Just Arrived in Town

Bloomfield dog washer Al Bundell takes one of the city's four new vans into his winter home at the DPW garage at Elm and Cote. The two of the vans were given to the city by Courta Farms and the other pair was purchased from the Wayne County Airport Authority. In the spring the quartet will be placed on the street.

Trend Starts Jan. 6, But He Has Problem

By MARY ZAHN

Nineteen-year-old Jack Dedera is a case in point. Only twelve years old, he went to school to take part in the news. The school system did not allow him to take part in the news. The school system did not allow him to take part in the news. The school system did not allow him to take part in the news.

SMITH NOTED that many people in the community have been concerned about the lack of opportunities for adults. Smith noted that the school system did not allow him to take part in the news. The school system did not allow him to take part in the news. The school system did not allow him to take part in the news.

Smith said that it was important for adults to have opportunities to participate in their community. Smith noted that the school system did not allow him to take part in the news. The school system did not allow him to take part in the news. The school system did not allow him to take part in the news.

The school system did not allow him to take part in the news. The school system did not allow him to take part in the news. The school system did not allow him to take part in the news. The school system did not allow him to take part in the news.

IN THIS ISSUE

IN THIS ISSUE

IN THIS ISSUE