

Groves Grads Stress English To Students

By PAM CARPENTER
Special Writer

Graduates from the class of 1963 returned for a visit Thursday, Jan. 2. Sixty college fresh students, junior to freshman, sophomores, spoke and senior English classes. The importance of English courses was stressed by the graduates. Following the school day, they were guests at a social hour. Ninety Groves graduates were served coffee and cookies in the cafeteria.

Exchange Day was held once again last Wednesday and Thursday, with Franklin Livonia High School. Franklin students visited us on Wednesday, Jan. 8. Groves students exchanging on Thursday were Dan Hastings, Sue Lyons, Ragnar Carstam, Hal Morris, Bonnie Borgeson and Linda Roberts.

THE SCHOOLS who are sponsored in the Northwest Suburban Association are Thurston, Franklin, Oak Park, North Farmington and Groves.

Future Nurses will meet Monday at 7:30 p.m. Further information will be announced.

Drama lectures will begin during the week of Jan. 20-25. The first lecture will be on Sunday of this week and the following will be on Tuesday.

SOCIOLOGY CLASSES taught by Mrs. Joan Kennedy were visited by a hypnotist last Thursday. The annual International AFS speech, which had previously been postponed, has been rescheduled for this Saturday night. The dance will be held in the gymnasium served coffee and cookies in the church cloths.

Northbrook Parents To Learn About Child Ability Tests

Parents of fifth graders at Northbrook School will learn about the ability tests their children recently took at a 7:30 p.m. meeting tonight in the multipurpose room. Miss Mary Lou Lake, who heads the testing program, will explain the Large - Thorndike scholastic ability tests and present national and local norms. The Large-Thorndike is not a true I. Q. test because it does not cover as wide an area as the latter, but it is a useful tool to better understand children.

Parents will receive slips of paper showing their children's scores on the test and teachers will be available to compare test scores to classroom performance.

Name Class Officers at Sacred Heart

By SUSAN BURKHARDT
Special Writer

On Monday, Jan. 6, school reopened. At the traditional assembly, the results of the December elections for student government were announced. The student government officers in the eleventh and twelfth grades are the blue ribbons: Mary Jo Straile is the highest ribbon, followed by Robin Collins, Mary Alice Rowe, Sue Burkhardt, Terry Karbo, Mary Conklin and Lindy Rice. Class representatives from the ninth and tenth grades, known as the green ribbons, are Sue Bourdin, Ina Broeman, Valerie Cheade, Debby Libby, Mickey Matthews, Kathy Sehn and Patsy Straile.

ON FRIDAY, at the monthly mission meeting of the Duschene Mission Unit, Terry Karbo gave her final report on the school's Christmas program. On Dec. 18, the high school girls delivered over 100 baskets of food, clothing and toys to 25 needy families in the Detroit area.

Later that week, girls from the middle school and their parents delivered baskets to eight religious orders who in turn gave the food and clothing to people who came to them for assistance.

During the past week, the girls in the high school have been pleasantly surprised by recent graduates who are still home on vacation. Among our visitors have been Terrence Shannon and Fleurette Lourin from the University of Michigan, Sue Bearden from Newton, Ann Arbor and Earl and Cathi Coyle from Loreto Heights.

Examinations Approaching At Cranbrook

By BOB LAKIN
Special Writer

Cranbrook's boarders returned from their Christmas vacations Sunday night and classes started all too early Monday morning, Jan. 6. With exams around the corner, Jan. 27-30, everyone is trying desperately to get back into the groove.

Jim Kraft and Steve Simmons report that their work on the Cranbrook yearbook, The Brook, is getting hectic. They have been madly putting up page forms and having pictures taken of every important group and activity.

THE END PRODUCT, which is made available just before school is out in June, will be well over 100 pages.

Tom Barlow, president of the "C" Club, Cranbrook's varsity club, announced that there would be a special party held on Saturday for "C" Club members. The event will include dinner and dancing in the Cranbrook cabin.

Type designer Frederic W. Goudy, who lived from 1865 until 1947, produced more different type designs during his lifetime than any other man in his field. No other designer in history is known to have produced as many as 100 different type designs. The prolific Goudy came forth with a grand total of 122.

Learning at Its Best

Wendy Wyatt (second from right), a sixth grader at Adams School, Birmingham, had the best source for studying about the human ear—her dad, Dr. Joseph Wyatt. Dr. Wyatt visited the school to explain and answer questions concerning the ear. Students discovered the answers to questions like "What makes your ear pop?" and "What is a mastoid?" But, the doctor's comment that cleanliness of the ear is a must, brought nothing but grunts and groans. Pictured are, from left, Mary Beth Kelly, Tom Hoenk, Dr. Wyatt, Wendy and Tim Ramble.

Seaholm Students Vote For Congress Officers

By TRISH YARGA
Special Writer

Seaholm students will exercise voting privileges tomorrow as they elect new Student Congress officers for the second semester. Following a campaign assembly in the morning, voting machines will be opened to the student body.

Sixteen candidates began vigorous campaigns on Jan. 13 with numerous posters, signs and tags. Eight of the competitors were eliminated by a primary election on Jan. 15. The results of the primaries were not known at press time.

Those seeking the office of president prior to Jan. 15 were Loren Musiek, Richard Keys, John Kearney, Larry Bell and Craig Johnson. Andy Everett and Jay Tennant were vying for the position of vice president.

Jane Bundy, Sue Thalacker, Randi Johnson and Laura Abbott were running for secretary. Campaigning for treasurer were Sandi Miller, Pat Richardson, Bruce Cronander, Dan Edson and Ted Van Allan.

THE SUCCESSFUL primary candidates have the opportunity to address the entire student body and secure votes at the assembly tomorrow.

International relationships through individuals are certainly increasing at SHS. Two more foreign exchange students have been welcomed recently by Seaholmites. They are Eduardo Alvarez and Leonardo Harari of Montevideo, Uruguay.

The boys, sponsored by the Youth for Understanding program, are on their summer vacation while in Michigan. Eduardo is living with Dr. and Mrs. John Saxon, while Leonardo is staying with Dr. Albert Miller and his family.

During the JAN. 2 meeting of Student Congress, a resolution concerning the editorials and features in The Birmingham Eccentric on teenagers and their activities was passed. It criticizes the implication made by the paper that a high percentage of Birmingham teens are delinquent. President Dave Zimmer had been authorized to write a letter and inclose the Congress resolution to The Eccentric.

Mr. Walway's ninth grade, English students have the opportunity to see the play "Julius Caesar" at the Wayne State University Shakespearean Theatre Friday.

4 Kingswood Girls on WJR Radio Show

By BETTY KRAUSE
Special Writer

Four members of Kingswood's 10th grade speech class, under the direction of Mrs. Hill, will participate in WJR radio's "Junior Town Meeting."

These girls; Diane Arnkoff, Mary Jane Elder, Jane King and Gretchen VanHorn will present a debate entitled "Is Homework a Positive Factor in the Process of Education?"

THE PRO SIDE will stress the importance of homework for the student in self-discipline and general learning. The con viewpoint will state that a little homework at night is good, but that most of it is of no value to the student. They feel that the time could be spent doing other constructive things.

The program, to be broadcast at 9:05 p.m., Monday, was taped on Wednesday with the students of Kingswood acting as the audience.

ON SUNDAY, the seniors of Kingswood and Cranbrook attended an open house at the Hoey residence. Mr. Hoey is Cranbrook's headmaster. A similar open house will be held for the juniors of both schools on Monday.

The Alumnae Association sponsored a luncheon on Tuesday honoring five faculty members. These teachers were Miss Grace Fry, Miss Elizabeth Bennett, Mrs. Lillian Holm, Miss Josephine Waldo and Miss Luella Houser.
