Every Apartment Deserves a Terrace

It looks as though our century has conspired to make it impossible to find a suitable home. But I have found that the time is ripe for a great adjustment to the people who resorted to the floor-by-floor and garden apartments. This belief is reflected in our new apartments where the entire floor of an apartment has been converted. The conversion of an apartment into a single room has been completely achieved.

In the new plan of operations, the entire maintenance of the apartment is taken care of by the owner. This does not mean that the owner is expected to live there himself, but it means that he is expected to give the same level of care to the apartment as if it were his own. This is the ideal situation, and I believe that it will prove to be most beneficial for everyone.

The new plan will allow for open air living on the second floor, with the entire apartment being enjoyed by the owner. The maintenance of the apartment will be handled by a professional service, and the owner will be able to use the apartment as if it were his own.

REAR EXTERIOR TO establish a rear view of the apartment, a large picture window is placed right next to the entrance, with a large sliding glass door allowing access to the outdoors. The entrance to the apartment is also featured, with a large window allowing for natural light to enter the room.
