Shoplifting Clinic Attended by 300

More than 300 persons attended the Birmingham Chamber of Commerce-police department-sponsored shoplifting clinic this week.

Knowles B. Smith, chamber executive director, said that all who attended the three-day program expressed a willingness to continue the battle against shoplifting in local stores.

"Owners, managers and sales personnel agreed that the figh: should be carried on throughout the year to deter the high amount of shrinkage in store inventories," Smith said.

Also taking part in the program were Robert L. Templin, senior assistant Oakland County prosecutor, and Lt. Robert Schaule of the Birmingham Police Dept.

watching, and as a result the rest of the time I was there (about 45 minutes) Miss Ross was my constant companion. Any dialogue between us must have run something like this:

Miss Ross: "Miss Johnson is over here talking with some of the teen-agers."

Unsuspecting photographer: "Okay, I'll just go ahead and shoot some candid stuff and we won't have to disturb her right away."

Miss Ross: "Oh, no; we couldn't do that. I'll have to let her know. She may want to fix her hair or something."

MISS ROSS then proceeded to disperse the crowd surrounding Miss Johnson along with any candid picture possibilities there may have been.

Miss Ross: "She says it's all right if you don't disturb any of the kids.

Unsuspecting photographer: "What kids? Listen, as long as she's free for the moment, how about if we round up Mr. Wild's daughter and one of her friends and pose the three of them?

Miss Ross: "Well, I'll see, but you know Luci gets so little chance to be with people her own age. I wish we could just let her alone."

WE FINALLY managed to get the posed shot taken. Then Luci was persuaded to participate in some of the sporadic dancing going on. I thought for sure this would make good human-interest material.

Miss Ross: "You can't shoot that."

U.P.: "Shoot what?"

Miss Ross: "That picture."

U.P.: "What picture?"

Miss Ross: "Of Miss Johnson dancing."

U.P.: "Why not?"

Miss Ross: "Mrs. Johnson has bidden it."

"Oh."

A few minutes after that Luci had to retire to her room to catch up on her home work, which ended the party. Which was just as well. I heard later that the secret service was about to confiscate my camera.

This and That a heavy heart to buy a new one, since his hat was beyond repair. Going into the only hat shop in the neighborhood, he said: "Well, here I am again."

"The United States cannot win the war in Viet Nam" is the portent of a recent U.S. State Dept. memorandum to that effect. More than a billion U.S. dollars, and many lives have thus far gone into that conflict . . . and, if we lose, then the Communists will take over and the western world will be in a jam for some of the rare minerals that come from that part of the world . . . minerals vitally necessary for 20th Century industry.

During the past few years, in many places on foreign lands, U.S. life and property have been endangered or destroyed by the actions of unfriendly people in those countries. In practically every such instance, the countries are those that have been financially helped by Americans. Moral: neither an individual nor a nation can buy real friendship!

Aunt Minnie had an embarrassing experience at a small town hotel last week where she attended a convention. She and some friends were looking for the stairway downstairs and opened a door only to see an old man, in the nude, stepping out of a bathtub. The women all shrieked and told the man they were looking for the fire escape. As they ran down the hall, the old man followed them yelling, "Where's the fire?"

Your dictionary is the only place where success comes before work. However, it also shows that love never precedes infatuation . . . even though debt is way ahead of thrift.

To protect the public against too much extravagance and waste in the expenditure of your tax money that goes to Washington, D. C., years ago Congress created the General Accounting Office, whose director is appointed for 10 years, and HE CAN'T BE FIRED BY ANYBODY UNTIL HIS TERM ENDS. This allows the director to "call 'em as he sees 'em." Recently, the current director told Congress that the Defense Dept. wastefully spent $486,900,000 during the year ending May 1, 1964. How do you like that, Mr. and Mrs. U.S. Taxpayer?

Resident Receives Citation by Army

A Birmingham resident, Neil E. Durham, 7265 South Tratham Ct., has been cited by the Department of the Army for initiating a training program for military chauffeurs which, it's estimated, will save the Department of Defense about $11,000 a year.

Employed by the U. S. Army's Detroit Procurement District, Durham developed a program which made it possible to cross-train military chauffeurs assigned to his office so that they might perform certain administrative functions in addition to their driving duties.
