

Mrs. J. J. Churches Will Open Home For Dominican Tea

A tea to benefit the Dominican Sisters of the Sick Poor will be held at the Bloomfield Hills home of Mrs. Joseph J. Churches, 221 Canterbury Road, today from 2 to 5 p.m.

Sponsors of the tea are auxiliary members who are the sole support of the sisters. Mrs. Churches is president of the group. Co-chairmen are Mrs. Aloysius K. Power and Mrs. Howard T. Keating, from the Bloomfield-Birmingham area; Mrs. Charles W. Talbot of Detroit and Mrs. Charles A. J. Kotcher of Grosse Pointe. Assisting the chairman are many local women. Among the north suburban members are Mesdames Edward V. Ott, George Marsden, Jerry T. Flanagan, James M. Roche, Judge W. Beard, Albert F. Boening, Charles Davitt, Charles W. Jones, Hanley Taylor, Dawson Taylor, J. Fred Solman, Bernard Costello, Frank Percon, Edward Lape, Hankley Hay, John Gilson, Daniel Fisher, Richard Ruen, Robert Ryan, H. Clinton Wise and Frank Keeffe.

IT'S NOT A usual sight at most convents to see the door open every morning and the entire congregation of sisters, in this case eleven, come out and scatter in different directions.

Yet this is what happens daily at the Convent of St. Ann, 700 W. Boston Blvd., Detroit. Some of the sisters who already have their RN degrees go to take care of patients, whereas most of their way to nursing schools or hospitals to complete the specialized training required for their apostolate.

These professional nurses with public health orientation are dedicated to nursing the needy in their own homes. Patients are referred to them by doctors, pastors, social workers, families or friends of the patients.

The only requisite for the sisters' services is that the patient must be under medical supervision. They go into the home, evaluate the personal needs of each case and nurse the injured, the young, the geriatric, acute or chronic patient.

At Home

Mr. and Mrs. David Buchan Theobald are currently residing in Pittsburgh, Pa., following their Oct. 3 wedding at the Sewickley Presbyterian Church, Pa. The bride is the former Anne Carpenter Kennedy, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Harry M. Curry III of Sewickley and the late Robert Kennedy of Wilmington, Del. The bridegroom is the son of Carl J. Theobald and the late Mrs. Theobald of Detroit. He was graduated from Cranbrook in Bloomfield Hills. Serving as an usher from Birmingham was David S. Cooper.

Engineers' Wives Entertain at Tea

A program and tea for members and prospective members was given by the Society of Engineers' Wives Tuesday in Detroit. Elinor K. Rose, author and consultant writer at Oakland University, spoke on "Sisters Under the Lipstick."

Mrs. Harold Knoff of Grosse Pointe was in charge of the table centerpiece and Mrs. Homer Harrison, Mrs. J. E. Mills, Mrs. A. H. Laxton and Mrs. Dallas Newkirk, posed.
