Township Group Asks Annexation to B'ham

A group of Bloomfield Township property owners have petitioned the City of Birmingham for annexation.

The land, which totals 7.25 acres, is located on N. Adams adjacent to the Grand Trunk Railroad tracks. A 20,000-squarefoot- parcel that is within the Birmingham city limits is also involved in the request.

City commissioners Monday night instructed the administration to contact township officials on how the request might be handled.

BOTH THE township and city parcels of property have been a matter of controversy.

Last July Oakland County Circuit Court ruled the Birmingham portion was zoned illegally with a single family classification. In September Birmingham commissioners zoned the land multiple family R-5.

At the same time a suit by the property owners, Cranbrook Realty, against Bloomfield Township's multiple family classification was thrown out of court. This decision is being appealed by Cranbrook Realty to the State Supreme Court.

Frank Newell, representing Cranbrook Realty, told commissioners Monday night that the appeal was being held up until after the creation of the new Second District Court of Appeals that will be established at the November election.

NEWELL'S GROUP wants the land annexed to Birmingham because city zoning requirements would permit more units to be built on the property than could be constructed under the township code.

Because Newell's group represents all of the property owners involved, the annexation would not have to be put up to a vote of the electors of the Township and the City.

The transaction could be accomplished with approval of the two governing groups.

An earlier request by Newell to have the Birmingham portion zoned neighborhood business was rejected by the commission.

Cranbrook Realty is headed by C. Allen Harlan, 3535 N. Adams, Bloomfield Township.

Detroit Lions quarterback Earl Morrall narrowly missed the NFL record books in the fourth game of the 1964 season against New York when, with a string of eight straight completions going, he hit his first for a long gain, then missed halfback Dan Lewis in the end zone when the receiver was momentarily delayed, then came back to hit the next four. The league record is 13 consecutive completions and is held by Minnesota Viking quarterback Fran Tarkenton.
