

OU's Mrs. Chips Marks Birthday

Mrs. Alfred G. Wilson of Rochester celebrated her 81st birthday Oct. 16 surrounded by some of her favorite people—the students at Oakland University who were hosts at festivities. Mrs. Wilson and her late husband donated the land on which the campus was built.

Pi Beta Phi's Respond to Fall Activities

Ideal club gatherings for young, married women and career girls seem to be few and far between these days; however, if you are a member of Pi Beta Phi sorority, joining your "jambo" alumnae club, in Birmingham, is a worthwhile experience.

A few Pi Phi's got together, not long ago, and arroyed their news of a new club into as many Pi Phi homes as possible. Young women from Birmingham, Bloomfield, Southfield, Troy, Franklin, Farmington, and Royal Oak have actively responded to fall plans and activities.

Single working girls, young marrieds, many young mothers, girls from as far west as Colorado and as far east as New York are all taking part in this new alumnae group.

NEW MEMBERS are always welcome and may contact Mrs. Mitchell B. Foster, president, in Southfield, or Mrs. Gary Grossman, this month's hostess, The Clubless in Sally Joach.

Mrs. Grossman's address is 130 Lafayette East, Detroit. The next meeting will be held there on Nov. 10 at 8 p.m. presided by the board meeting.

Much of the November meeting will be set aside for discussion on such subjects as fall activities and projects, fitness, parties, and other Pi Phi matters.

The second half of the meeting has been planned as a "noisy soiree," a term that is significant to Pi Phi's.

There will be an Arrowcraft display at the home of Mrs. Paul Edgington, 3028 Halla Lane, Birmingham, until the end of October. Members, friends and neighbors may be interested in doing a bit of Christmas shopping and, if so, please contact Mrs. Edgington before your visit.
