Area Goodwill Junior Members Hit High Gear for Annual Show

Busy with plans for the 17th Annual Junior Goodwill Industries Antiques Market and Sale, are members of the Junior Group living in the Bloomfield Hills and Birmingham area.

Mrs. John S. Hart of Tully Road is responsible for the catalogue this year.

Mrs. Charles Erickson of Morningview Terrace, as an area captain, is responsible for the collection of advertisements in the Birmingham and Bloomfield area. When in need of assistance, Mrs. Erickson can rely upon Mr. Erickson who is a member of the Men's Board of Directors of Goodwill Industries.

MRS. ROBERT C. CHARLTON of Oak Road and Mrs. Hugh T. Barber of Birchwood Road have been working with the committee on menus, and the staffing of the Copper Kettle Dining Room. They are general managers of this room. Mrs. Robert E. McCollum of Chesterfield Road and Mrs. Ralph A. Lee Jr. of Royal Oak are in charge of dinners.

Complete luncheons and dinners will be served to the public during the hours of the show. If only a sandwich or snack is desired, there is the Victorian Ice Cream Parlor where Junior Goodwill members dressed in pink candy stripe aprons serve you.

One of the attractions in the show is the Country Store, managed by Mrs. Richard Allman of Ardmore Blvd. Assisting her is Mrs. George H. Souter of Yarmouth Road. There in the early American atmosphere of the Country Store is aged cheddar cheese and an unlimited variety of old fashioned candies and colorful wares.

A FEW STEPS beyond is the pantry shelf, filled with home made jams, jellies, pickles and the like.

Posters are being handled by Mrs. Robert C. Awrey, of Waddington Road. Mrs. Carl S. Abbott of Broadway Blvd., chairman of arrangements, is responsible for all signs used for the show, making it easy to find the way around two floors of antiques and the identity of the dealers.

Mrs. Donald R. Bageson, of Riverside Drive, personnel chairman, will be seeing to it that the Junior Group members are working where needed.

MRS. GEORGE T. WILDE of Franklin and Mrs. W. Thomas LaRue of the Indian Village Manor are co-chairmen of the 1964 Junior Goodwill Industries Antiques Market and Sale.

Highlighting the antiques market are the displays of American and imported antiques shown by 48 dealers, and the treasures gathered from the homes in the metropolitan area for sale in the Goodwill Industries booth. You can shop in a few hours at 48 dealers, many from far off states, and all under one roof.

The Antiques Market and Sale opens on Nov. 8 and runs through Nov. 11. Hours are Sunday 2 to 10 p.m.; Monday and Tuesday 11 to 10, and Wednesday 11 to 8.

Goodwill Industries Building is on Brush Street at East Grand Boulevard. Proceeds of the Junior Goodwill Industries Antiques Market and Sale are an important contribution towards maintaining the rehabilitation services and job training program of the Goodwill Industries. With the success of the show, a greater number of trainees will be placed in industry during the coming year.
