Area Residents Lead Wayne State Campaign

A noted Detroit physician and an executive of the Automobile Manufacturers Association have been elected by the Wayne State Fund board of directors to lead its campaign during 1965.

Chosen as chairman of the board was Dr. Don W. McLean, 26760 Bloomfield Drive, Lechucup Village. A graduate of Wayne State's School of Medicine, he has been president of the Wayne County Medical Society and is currently serving as chairman of the Michigan State Health Fair.

Dr. McLean succeeds Samuel N. Greshenson, 19565 Cumberland Way, Detroit.

DR. DON McLEAN

Promoted to the presidency of the fund is Dr. Robert C. Lusk, director of Educational Services for the A.M.A., who received both his master's and doctoral degrees from the University's College of Education.

A FORMER PRESIDENT of the University Alumni Association and winner of an alumni award in 1963, Dr. Lusk is also chairman of the Michigan Department of Public Instruction Curriculum Planning Committee.

Leslie K. Schmier of Detroit, secretary of the Hamilton Construction Co., is the new first vice-president. Other alumni elected as vice-presidents are Robert W. Huzar, 58 Manor Road, Birmingham, controller of Federal-Mogul-Bower Bearings, Inc.; Maxwell Josepy of Huntington Woods, general manager of Production Steel Strip Corp.; Dr. Robert LeAnderson of Detroit, assistant superintendent in the Detroit Public Schools; and Hans A. Matthias, 2555 Endsleigh Drive, Birmingham, chief engineer of Ford Division.

Named as secretary was Mrs. Irving Dworkin of Farmington, secretary and treasurer of the Diore and Rose-View Building Co. Seven new directors elected to six-year terms on the board are: Mary G. Ball, of Detroit, director, Foreign Visitors Program, International Institute; Benjamin Burdick of Detroit, circuit judge; Wayne county; Paul W. Cazanaska, 7025 Springridge, Birmingham, manager, sales training, Parke Davis & Co.; Dr. Marion Jock, Grosse Pointe Park; Marshall Noecker, Grosse Pointe; and Robert Wingerter, 220 N. Cranbrook Road, Bloomfield Hills, president, Automotive Division, Rockwell-Standard Corp.

THE WAYNE STATE Fund was created in 1954 by a distinguished group of former students to encourage annual giving by alumni and friends who wished to share in the progress of the University which has now grown to an enrollment of 25,200.

Since its establishment, the fund has raised over 700,000 and has assets of almost a quarter of a million dollars. Its main objectives are the support of scholarship and loan funds, faculty research and recognition awards, and programs to promote University interpretation to the community.

Autumn Festival Set By Kingswood Class

By MARY JANE HILDER
Special Writer

Kingswood's juniors are busy completing last-minute preparations for one of the year's most important events, the Autumn Festival, Saturday.

Work was begun last spring when the class elected the general chairman, Cathy Cooper, and decided on a theme.

September found the juniors busy electing chairmen of various committees and writing the script for their show, which is the main attraction of Festival. The show consists of a series of skits tied together by a character who relates to the theme.

The theme of the Autumn Festival is by tradition the most closely-guarded secret in the school until its announcement to the school a week before Festival. The theme this year, which was revealed in assembly on Nov. 16, is fairy tales. The show is named "It's Grimm" and includes a title song written by Miss Bertha Seifert.

In addition to their show the juniors also run a booth in the gymnasium with the other classes. The names of the booths all relate to the theme and this year include "The Gingerbread House," "The Glass Slipper" and "Granny's Pad."

For the parents there is "The Mad Hatter's Tea Party," a refuge from the noise and excitement of the gymnasium, where they can relax and have a cup of coffee.

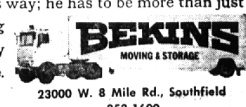

The booths are open from 7:30 to 10 p.m., after which there will be dancing until 10:30 p.m.

We help make sure that teddy bears, bunny rabbits, and talkie dolls stay where they're needed. In your child's hands. Before we load anything on our vans, we always ask if you remembered to set aside your child's favorite toy. In the hustle and bustle of moving it's an easy thing to forget. And if the toy is in a box that gets packed way back behind other boxes and furniture, it may be impossible to find when your child wants it. Chances are he'll already be upset by all the activity of moving, and if he can't have his favorite toy then he'll really be upset (and if he is, won't you be too?).

We feel that it's part of our job to prevent this from happening. In fact, we feel that our men should be alert to anything, no matter how small, that will make your moving day a little easier. It takes a special kind of mover to do things this way; he has to be more than just a mechanical man who picks things up and puts them down. He has to have understanding and a great deal of plain old common sense. When you get men like this they may not be able to turn your moving day into child's play. But at least they'll make it more bearable.

It comes in its own box.

- There has to be a little Scrooge in you to give a Volkswagen Station Wagon for Christmas. Because when you open it up, it's just a big, empty box.
- It has nearly twice the room as conventional wagons that don't look like boxes.
- It holds 9 conventional adults or who-knows-how-many unconventional kids.
- Or you can put a 40-foot Christmas tree right through the hole in the roof.
- You can carry 170 cubic feet of snow or go skiing with the kids inside.
- At this time of year, you'll enjoy the VW's firm traction. (The engine is in back, over the drive wheels).
- And you'll never spend a dime on antifreeze; the engine is air-cooled. (Which also means it can't boil over next summer).
- There are a few other light-fisted items you'll go for: 35,000 miles on a set of tires, better than 20 mpg and hardly any oil between changes.
- Let us hear from you, Scrooge.
