Lost Decibels
Sets Campaign
For the Deaf

On Friday and Saturday Lost Decibels a non-profit, non-sectarian and non-political organization is conducting a canister drive in all of Oakland County to collect funds sponsor free education for deaf children of Oakland County again this year.

Volunteer canister collectors will be located from 9 a.m. to 9 p.m. at Jacobson's 336 W. Maple; Demery's, 200 N. Woodward and in Bloomfield Township, Miracle Mile Shopping Center.

Oakland County has special classrooms for acoustically handicapped children in Ferndale, Royal Oak and Pontiac.

Because of hearing impairment, the deaf children graduate from high school with considerably less in the way of education than hearing children. During the summer months the deaf children regress.

It takes two to three months of review to bring them back to that point in their speech development at which they were when they completed school in June. For this reason the Lost Decibels felt that it was imperative that a summer program be sponsored.

In November of 1963 a committee met with the Oakland County Board of Education. The board gave Lost Decibels their support with the understanding that all financial aid must come from Lost Decibels.

All funds raised for the summer program came from contributions and through fund raising sponsored by Lost Decibels. Because of the contributions of many charitable individuals and organizations, the summer program became a reality. The summer program expenses totaled $8,156.00.

Next summer it is anticipated that 80 or 90 children will be enrolled in this program.

25,200 Students
Sets New Record
For Wayne State

With an increase of 2,800 students this fall, enrollment at Wayne State University reached an all-time high of 25,200 students, reports Dr. Henry H. Pixley, dean of admissions, records and registration.

"This unprecedented increase in students so far outstripped our predictions," said Wayne State President Clarence B. Hilberry, "that we are forced to ask the state legislature for an emergency supplemental appropriation to adequately provide for the overflow."

IN PREPARING the 1964-65 budget request, WSU officials predicted a head count enrollment of 23,000 for this fall, and a full-time equivalent of 16,215. The actual fall-time equivalent is 17,211, or nearly 1,000 more.

Based upon the legislative appropriation for '64-65 of $1,241 per predicted full-time equivalent student the University is short $1,236,036 (996 more students times $1,241). The overall enrollment increase was 13 per cent with the highest percentage increase in the professional schools of Law, Medicine, Nursing and the School of Business Administration. Based on the present trend, revised projections for the fall of 1965 have been undertaken and university officials now predict enrollment will reach 29,000.

"It will be necessary for the new legislature to take this into account when making appropriations for 1965-66," said President Hilberry, "since our budget request was submitted to the State Department of Administration before we had this fall's figures and consequently far under-estimated our '65-66 enrollment."

WSU, WITH ITS high percentage of Michigan residents, serves the largest number of Michigan youth seeking higher education, according to Dr. Hilberry.

"Our location in the most populous area of the state means that ever-increasing pressure is put upon us to provide the same high standards of educational excellence that prevail at our sister institutions," said Dr. Hilberry, "and to do this we must have the same level of financial support."

Cranbrook Teacher
Named a Director

Ronald D. Krash of Lone Pine Rd., Bloomfield Hills, history teacher at Cranbrook School, was named director-elect of the Independent Schools Association of the Central States (ISACS) at the 67th annual conference last week at the Laboratory Schools of the University of Chicago.

Floyd W. Bunt, Cranbrook School science teacher, presided at the kick-off general session, which was followed by sectional meetings. Carl G. Wonnberger, Cranbrook School English teacher, was a featured speaker during the English section and Krash charmed the social studies meeting.

Schools represented from this area in addition to Cranbrook School were Kingswood School Cranbrook, Brookside School Cranbrook, Detroit Country Day, and Bloomfield Country Day.

CONTEST RULES

Read Carefully

- Official Eccentric entry blank must be attached securely to each entry.
- The entries will be judged on the basis of neatness, originality of thought and beauty. In making their selections the judges will take the age of the entrant into consideration. Children of employees of The Eccentric are not eligible to enter.
- Paste or tape entry to a plain sheet of paper (such as typewriter paper). Entries must be mounted in this manner or they will be disqualified. They may be folded over, however, for ease in mailing. There is no entry fee of any kind.
- You may submit as many entries as you wish, provided each is accompanied by a separate entry blank. Your school grade, from one to three or four to six, will determine in which of the two prize categories your entry will be eligible.
- Fill out the entry blank completely. Have your mother or father go over it with you to be sure all the information is clear and distinct. Have your parents print (or type) your entry blank if necessary, so we can list your name correctly if you win a prize.
- Mail or bring your entry to: Christmas Coloring Contest, The Birmingham Eccentric, 1225 Bowers, Birmingham, Mich. All entries become the property of The Eccentric. No entries will be returned.
- Judging will be done by Ethel Simmons, arts editor; George Landino, Groves High School art teacher; and Betty Conn, sculptor. The decision of the judges is final.
- All entries must be in or postmarked by midnight Saturday, December 12. Winners will be announced in The Eccentric, Thursday, December 24, day preceding Christmas.
