Seek New President At Eastern Michigan

At Eastern Michigan University the regents committee and a faculty committee have the responsibility for choosing a man to fill the post to be vacated by retiring President Eugene B. Elliott.

Whoever fills this position will influence a few thousand students his first year, several more thousand persons in about five years, and many thousands by the end of his term in office, according to a law of geometric proportion that applies to all people engaged in educational work.

The extended process of making a choice will end soon. The decision will be made this month, and announcements will follow in January. There are no real indications yet as to who the chosen man will be.

Whoever he is, wherever he comes from, the successful candidate will emerge from a field of distinguished prospects. The initial list of preferences drawn up by the faculty committee consisted of well over 100 names. After a careful screening by the committee the list was reduced to about 70.

THESE NAMES were placed in categories which were themselves considered for an order of preference. Candidates in the more acceptable categories were invited to the campus for visits with the presidential committee of the Board of Regents.

The criteria set up by the faculty committee indicates the range of experience required of a college president. It should be borne in mind, however, that these prerequisites are not final; the board of regents had criteria of their own.

Even though the final responsibility of making a selection rests with the regents, there was considerable cooperation between them and the faculty, in keeping with democratic ideals.

HERE ARE some of the requirements: maturity, tact, knowledge, professional skill, force of character, and a fine past record. The new president will have to be capable of representing Eastern Michigan before the public in a manner well-suited to command respect and promote understanding.

He is expected to be a man with broad comprehension of educational philosophy, and to have a grasp of administrative duty. With previous success as a teacher and scholar to guide him, he should be aware of the problems that face the classroom teachers and researchers who will rely on him for support and unity.

He is likely to be a forceful public speaker. It is assumed he will be a man of integrity, imparted in the quest of truth and immune to attack as he is guided by an honest feeling for what's right. Since the function of education is to benefit society, he must never lose sight of civic responsibilities.

THE PROBLEMS he will face once he becomes president of Eastern Michigan are likely to enlarge. To begin with, he will have to be astute. Dealing tactfully with politicians, he will raise money enough to meet the demands of an ever-increasing enrollment.

Since education today requires more technical knowledge than in the past, there will be need for more equipment and facilities. The staff will have to engage in more research projects; therefore, the ratio of professors to students will drop significantly.

In other words, an increase in student numbers will not match the percentage increase in faculty. Administrative problems will multiply even at a faster rate.

Ad Director At Demery's Moves to Fla.

Esther M. Wagner, who has been responsible for advertising and publicity for Demery's Inc., including the Birmingham store, is moving to Fort Lauderdale, Fla.

Miss Wagner, who has been with Demery's since 1937, said she plans to take a two-month vacation and "then get back to work," in Florida.

She will be succeeded at Demery's by Mrs. Virginia Lanham, 27256 Lathrup Blvd., Lathrup Village.

MISS WAGNER began her career in retailing as an executive secretary. In 1944 she organized and directed Demery's advertising and publicity department.

She has been responsible for the firm's entire advertising and public relations program, all fashion shows and other store events.

A resident of Detroit, Miss Wagner was named the "Advertising Woman of the Year" in 1961 by the Women's Advertising Club.

During the past few years the store has won five national awards for its advertising campaigns. Miss Wagner's work merited the Gold Award from the National Retail Merchants Association in 1957 and a Silver Award in 1958.

She is a past president of the Detroit Women's Advertising Club and a past regional director of Fashion Group
