

Large Tree Accents Kollars' Party

By ELEANOR NELSEN

A traditional family Christmas Eve party was held in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Winfred Kollar of Knollwood Circle.

The Kollars, as is their practice, look for the largest Christmas tree they can find and then invite their children, grandchildren, great-grandchildren and friends to come early in the afternoon to enjoy it and perhaps a personal visit from Santa Claus.

Lyle Winslow, of the original Mayflower Winslows often takes the part of the jolly St. Nick but this year finds himself extremely busy working on a new project called the New Horizon, which is a workshop for retarded young people who are beyond the school ages.

James Kollar is working with Mr. Winslow in this undertaking which makes both of them really true Santa Clauses.

MR. AND MRS. Ronald Milner of Birmingham Farms had as their house guests for Christmas, Mr. and Mrs. Warren E. Milner of Short Hills, N. J., who were most anxious to see their 15-month-old grandson Tommy. They flew in town in spite of the mucky weather we were experiencing the day before Christmas Eve.

"We'll be home for Christmas" was the chant coming from the college set, but not for many more days. One such song came from Patricia Kent, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Kent of Bradford Drive.

Party was another of the fortunate students who made the trip to the Rose Bowl, especially fortunate because she is a junior at the University of Michigan, and it can be so much fun if you are a student of the school invited to play at Pasadena on New Year's Day.

Mrs. Simon J. Gormley of New York was the house guest of the John P. Gormleys of Jackson Park Drive during the holiday season.

THE NICK Mitchells of S. Cranbrook Cross Road are hosting a New Year's Eve party in their home for almost a hundred people. The entertainment will be furnished by the guests themselves who dance the delightful Greek folk dances.

Another swinging party is being held by the William Busches of S. Gengary who are having as their guests a group of southern dancers that is who will spend the evening reeling in the New Year.

An "after church services" open house was held by Mr. and Mrs. Charles Hooverson of Donegan Court on Sunday, Dec. 20 between 11 a.m. and 1:30 p.m.

The Arthur Morans of Cederbrook held an open house on Dec. 20 between 5 and 7 p.m. at which they entertained in excess of 50 neighbors and friends at a buffet.

FOR THE THIRD year in succession the William Keough family of S. Williamsbury (this includes Mr. and Mrs. Patty, young Bill and Chipper), have spent Christmas at Boyne Mountain where the entire family enjoyed five days of skiing.

Watch for exciting news in the Knollwood Fairways area next year. Their social chairman, Mrs. Harold Luvisch, promises a truly novel party. She undoubtedly brought the idea home with her from a vacation she and her husband had in Hawaii this past summer.

Mr. and Mrs. Herman Frank-1 of Fairhill Drive entertained several of their friends at a pre-holiday party they held in their home on Dec. 12.

THE HAROLD Turners of S. Cranbrook Cross Road who are fairly new residents (last September) opened up their home to 50 of their friends at a cocktail party and buffet on Dec. 19.

Mrs. Turner said after having lived in an apartment for a number of years it felt wonderful to entertain with plenty of room in her own home.

Mr. and Mrs. Harry White of W. Dartmoor had as their house guests during the holiday season, Mrs. White's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Shelly of Richmond, Ind., who found great pleasure in visiting with their grandsons, Harry, Jr., and Ralph.

DECEMBER 19 was party night at the home of the William Caldwell of Clunbury. Cocktails and a buffet were served to about 40. The guest list was comprised of neighbors, members of the Mear club and church acquaintances.

THE LEO Ladehoff family, formerly of E. Dartmoor and now living in Tennessee, were back in town house hunting during the middle of December. Friends in the area were delighted to learn they were moving back.

The Howard Beer family of Burnley Drive are basking in the sun south of the Mexican border this holiday season.

Just before Christmas, the Beers and children, Vanessa and Stephen, flew to New Orleans where son Louis, a junior at Harvard, joined them. Their flight continued on to Merida, Mexico.

From there they journeyed on to the southern peninsula of Yucatan where they spent six memorable days touring the jungles, the plantations of sisal hemp and the ancient Indian ruins dating back many centuries. Yucatan is composed largely of white limestone deposits and is about 100 feet above sea level.

The family planned to join in the Mexican holiday celebrations during their stay.

The William Lees of Candlestick Court entertained 40 members of the Sanctuary Choir of the Clawson Methodist Church on Wednesday evening. Mrs. Lee is the church minister of music.

During the holidays the Lees will be entertaining both sets of parents, Mr. and Mrs. William G. Lee of Hillsdale, Mich., and Mr. and Mrs. Homer Leisenring of Dearborn. Another guest will be Mrs. Eva Rodee of Jamesville, Wis.

THE LAURENCE Hesses of Pine Hill Drive have their son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Mervier and infant son, Thomas Laurence, living with them during the holiday season while they are house hunting. The young family arrived last week after Mervier completed his two years of service at Fort Benning, Ga., as an SP-4. The son was born in Georgia on Thanksgiving Day.

The Warren Wood home on Orchard Hill Drive is still the "Wood Home." In December the senior Woods moved to the Foxcroft Apartments, selling their home to their son and daughter-in-law, Dr. and Mrs. Warren Wood, Jr., and young son, Warren III. The doctor is a resident physician at William Beaumont Hospital in Royal Oak.

THE L. B. FLOWERS of E. Valley Chase Drive entertained at holiday cocktails on Saturday evening. Invitations went out to 24 area friends.

The Eric Wiltshire family of Macedonia Court departed for Charlevoix on Christmas Day to spend a few days skiing with friends.

Thumper Mountain and Boyne Highlands were among the slopes they planned to conquer. Prior to their departure they entertained friends and neighbors at a holiday punch party and concert.

THE CONCORD Green Garden Club, branch of the WNEGA, met recently at the Eastways Drive home of Mrs. Annes McVeigh, Assisting the hostess was Mrs. John J. Sherlock, Mrs. J. P. Silk and Mrs. William Lee.

Program chairman Mrs. Ralph Tyson introduced three members of the "Purple Flames of Birmingham," a group interested in the making of candles. They presented the history of candlemaking, the art of displaying candles and demonstrated unusual ideas for the use of candles in holiday arrangements and special occasions.
