

OU Series to Present Segovia

Andres Segovia, world-famous Spanish guitarist, will appear on the Oakland University Concert Series at 8:15 p.m. Saturday at Pontiac Northern High School.

He will include on his program music by such classic composers as Bach of whose work he has been recognized as a leading interpreter.

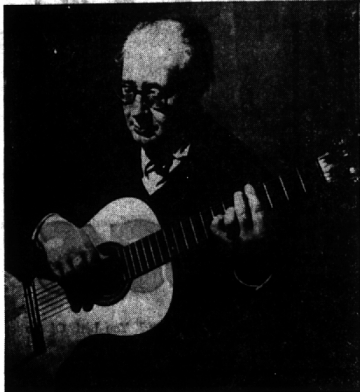

In addition, he will play several of the many works dedicated to him by such modern composers as De Falla, Villa-Lobos and Roussel, as well as a group of Spanish compositions.

SEGOVIA, BORN NEAR Granada, currently is celebrating the 56th anniversary of his first public appearance at the age of 14.

Each year he plays nearly 100 concerts in South America and Europe in addition to his regular tours in this country. His annual recitals in such U.S. cities as New York, San Francisco, Boston and Los Angeles are sold out long in advance.

Of a recent recital, Ross Parmenter of the New York Times reported:

"Such was the artistry of the master guitarist that he held the large audience so silent that a winding of a wrist watch could be heard for rows around!"

MASTER GUITARIST ANDRES SEGOVIA

Birmingham's Paul Is Due for Detroit With Peter, Mary

Peter Paul (Birmingham's) and Mary, folk music trio, will appear in concert at 7:30 p.m. March 1 in Detroit.

Paul Stookey, in addition to his baritone, adds a gift of mine and sound effects to the lighter side of the musical group.

Stookey thumped an electric guitar for a high school rock 'n' roll group on local TV and ended his way through Michigan State University. As a stand-up comic he was the highest-paid entertainer in Greenwich Village.

DOWN TO EARTH

Lawn Can Be Fertilized Atop Snow

This is a good time to order your fertilizer for the lawn. It can be spread some day when you get inspired and the lawn surface has just a slight show of snow on it.

The snow will help you guide the spreader and not miss an area. In the early, early spring we can use a fertilizer with a 12-12-12 formula because of the dormancy of the grass. Any day when the temperature is 40 degrees the grass will benefit from the treatment, and one spring chore will be polished off.

The other day I visited Arden Roberts from Warren who leads the local under-the glass gardeners, and he had a multitude of ideas to share. Remember, you people with a nice sunny winter can participate in many of the greenhouse tricks.

FOR INSTANCE, he planted snapdragons in pots in September, and he has had an endless amount of cut flowers. Also at this time, he planted choice primrose seed like we use in our shady gardens, and he had beautiful pots of primroses. Dwarfed salvia seed was planted in September, and you should see the pots of handsome red flowers he enjoyed for the holidays. Truthfully, they were more attractive than red poinsettias.

Here is an idea many of you will want to duplicate. He made a Christmas cactus tree by fashioning a five-inch diameter tube out of hardware cloth with a length of about 18 inches.

THE TUBE WAS placed in a well-proportioned pot made firm with soil packed around its perimeter. Now here is the tricky step. He took the vacuum cleaner tube for special cleaning and inserted it in the middle of the formed circle of hardware cloth, and in the area between the metal tube and hardware cloth packed sphagnum moss.

This moss should be damp. Now, Advertising Men Meet for Art Class

A group of Birmingham-Bloomfield area advertising men has organized a weekly life drawing class which meets at New Center Studios in Bloomfield Hills.

They include Craig Bowen, George Sparks, Dick Hinn, Hubert Volkman, Dick Zayac, all of MacManus, John & Adams, Bloomfield Hills; Thad Brykalaki and Jim Morrison both of New Center; and Bill Clair of a Detroit newspaper.

Statistics Show 40 Million Sew

More than 40 million women make up the home sewing market. A recent survey revealed that over half of these women who sew are between the ages of 18 and 34.

Most are married with families and live in urban areas. Twenty-five per cent or more have incomes higher than the national average.

Plant Green Shrubs Three Feet Away

Evergreens and other shrubs should be planted at least three feet from the wall of a house or other building.

This is necessary to present the inside of these plantings from being "cooked" by heat and sunlight reflected from bright walls. This is particularly true of plants on a southern or southwestern exposure.
