Kingswood Forms An AFS Group to Help Raise Funds

By BETTY KRAUSE
Special Writer

An American Field Service committee has been formed this year in order to raise the necessary $700-$800 to have an AFS student at Kingswood next year.

In past years each class has initiated a fund raising project of its own and all proceeds were contributed toward this cause. This year, however, it has been decided to concentrate efforts toward specific projects through a special committee.

With vice-president of Student Council, Katie Lovett, as chairman, and Miss Bertha Seifert as faculty advisor, the committee also comprises representatives from each class. They are seventh grade, Prudence Vogt; eighth, Joan Emmett; ninth, Sue E. Smith; tenth, Cathy Cooper; eleventh, Marilyn Manok; and twelfth, Kris Kauden.

BEFORE THE Christmas season, the committee profited $59 from the sale of AFS Christmas cards and $75 from the sale of novelty gifts. At Autumn Festival, they sold advance tickets for a pancake supper. Parents and friends are invited to attend this dinner on Saturday, March 21.

Other projects to be carried out later this year will be the Junior Fashion Show, Senior Dress-as-you-like-day and the International Bakesale. Because of its popularity, it is hoped that the latter will exceed its profit of $185 earned last year.

It is intended that these fund-raising events will not only bring in a lot of money, but will also be enjoyed by all who come.

In chapel last week, the Cabinet presented a resume of its activities during the year. Each member of this group spoke on a specific topic. Pat Hewlett explained the purpose of Cabinet, which is to encourage religious life in school and to give the students an opportunity to serve the community.

JANE COOPER told the assembly about the two foster children we are supporting. Candy Porter indicated the purpose of Wednesday chapel and John Vesper Services, and Esther Goodstein noted some of the social services which Cabinet helps with.

Debbie Dobski elaborated on the students visits to Pontiac State Hospital. Dani Miskinis pointed out the various organizations to which Cabinet, through student pledges, contributes.

It's Catholic Book Week at Holy Name School

Students at Holy Name School in Birmingham have been celebrating Catholic Book Week in the school's two libraries. Students and the faculty joined together to prepare for the annual event. All grades took part in making pre-view as the first-grade children in the picture at left demonstrate. Busy making bookmarks are (seated, from

Brother Rice Names Cast For First All-Student Play

BY JOHN MCGUCKIN
Special Writer

Brother J. B. Naah announced the cast for Brother Rice High School's first all-student play last Thursday. The play, to be presented on April 17, 18 and 19, is "The Mouse That Roared."

Four performances will be given, evening performances on Friday, Saturday and Sunday night with a Saturday matinee. The play will be staged, managed, and produced entirely by Brother Rice students with assistance from students from Marian High School.

The play has been double-cast to enable more students to participate. Sharing the lead part of Tully are Jim Dean and Jim Bolary. Dan Diggle and Chris Thomas will be Mounjo; Dave Dean and Jim Vannier, Benter; and Pat Kaufmann and John Vaughn, Beston. John Pletch and Dan Bowers will be the President in the well-known story of the midwest country which decided to declare war on the United States.

CONNAL O'CONNELL and Tim Thornton as Kokinda, Dick Kreuz and Al Burns as Snippet, and Jack Bode and Dave Johnson as Will Tatum will be associates of either Tully or the President. Other characters are Jim Vannier and Mike McCarthy as Tom Huggins, Brian Murphy and Dave DeWulf as a page and Bob Bickner as a radio announcer.

George O'Brien, Dick Morris, Greg Gorman and Chris Rich will be students and Tom Schaefer, Dale

Gardner, Mike Rusher and Joe Varley will be foot soldiers.

Playing Gioranna, the female lead, will be Maureen Anderson and Colleen Taylor. Other Marian girls having parts in the play are Trish Cunningham, Nancy Brosius, Kathy McPhail, Sue Mahr, Pat Cutting, Claudia Stanczak and Mary Roush.

Playing Miss Johnson, Miss Wilkins and Mrs. Reiner will be Sue Young, Linda Gibson and Maureen Keating, respectively. Other female parts will be taken by Terry Peterson, Karen Peckla and Franci Thurber.

Since "The Mouse That Roared" is entirely a student project, committee chairmen have been appointed to handle the production of the play. John MacAlone is house manager and will work in close coordination with Mike Barkley, who is stage manager. The prop crew will be headed by Elmer Clawson, while Brian McNaught heads a group of prompters. Doug Heister and Jim Harrington are business managers.

Five Cranbrook Seniors Inducted Into Nat'l Society

Five seniors at Cranbrook were inducted into the National Cum Laude Society at a school assembly Friday morning. They are: Robert Taggart, 320 N. Williamsbury, Birmingham; Ted Baldwin, 1750 Hillwood Drive, Bloomfield Hills; Robert W. Chambers, Jr., 725 Vaughan, Bloomfield; Guy Bramble, 18120 Magnolia Parkway, Southfield; and Louis Race of Kalamazoo.

HUGH C. Riddleberger, headmaster of Grasse Pointe University School, was speaker at the ceremony.

Membership in the society is one of the highest honors Cranbrook awards. The society has member schools in various parts of the country and operates on the secondary level comparable to Phi Beta Kappa.

THE NINE Brother Rice winners will now go to the city competition to be held at Austin High School early in the spring.

Brother Rice seniors, headed by their senior retreats at Manassas, are busy organizing a model U.S. Senate. The Senate will be held on April 2 while BRHS students are on Easter vacation.

James I. Murphy, who teaches Brother Rice's political science course, will moderate the event. Murphy, with the aid of his seniors and juniors, hopes to completely organize the Senate as a replica of the Senate in Washington.

BOTH DEMOCRATIC and Republican parties will be represented in the same proportion as their actual Senate membership. Majority and minority leaders and whips will be elected by the students themselves while the vice-president and president pro tempore will be appointed as impartial referees. The BRHS Senate will consider at least two issues of major importance today, the tax cut and civil rights.

B'field Hills Students Enter Art Contest

By KAREN TRIMMER
Special Writer

Twenty-one art students from Bloomfield Hills High School submitted entries to the Scholastic Art Show which was held on Feb. 22 at Crowley's.

They are Susan LeVan, Christie Ribant, Mary Two, Linda Carnegie, Karen Clark, David Swayze, Joel Phillips, Kenneth Mavaky, Juli Shaw, William Rumminger, Kenneth Manna, Joe Gosling, Berit Johnson, Carol Hermsberger, Kathy Carrier, Ruth Worman, Tim Barnes, Ed Perlman, Sandra Beridge and Michele Goldner.

Entries were submitted in painting, drawing, graphics, design, sculpture, crafts and photography. Prizes were certificates of merit, gold keys (which entitled the work to be sent to a higher judgment) and over 100 scholarships.

CHEERLEADERS Pat Lack, Kris Potts, Debbie Martin, Barb Calhoun, Barb Deeb and Starr Merrill visited Groves Feb. 1 for a cheerleading clinic. Several area and Detroit schools were invited to participate. Different cheers and ideas for pep assembly skills were learned. BRHS took first place for uniforms and third for cheering. Miss Deanna M. Maher is the sponsor.

Students interested in forensics have begun practicing under the guidance of Mr. Clarence Sloum. They will compete in five categories: interpretive reading, humorous reading, extemporaneous speaking, original oration and declamation (which is open only to sophomores).

Glenn Wooster, Mr. Sloum and one other member of the faculty will help judge an intramural contest which will determine contestants for the Wayne-Oakland League basketball on April 11. Two students will be sent in each category.

"ETERNAL SPRING" will be the theme for the spring dance that the junior class is now planning. The dance, which will be held on March 21, will feature the Am-tones, a Junior Achievement band.

Baltimore, Md., was named for Lord Baltimore, the founder of the Maryland colony. The first settlement in the area was in 1651, and a town was founded in 1729.
