Word from Fort Charlotte, Fla. brings news of former Birminghamites Mr. and Mrs. Bruce K. Harding who are currently entertaining their daughter, Genevieve Maxwell of Beirut, Lebanon.

Mrs. Maxwell is a feature writer for the Daily Star and daily Communist for the Star-Diary, in English, sister-daily of the Arabic Al-Hayat, largest daily paper between Cairo and Baghdad.

The latter is currently the setting for the annual Baalbeck International Festival, with the world's finest orchestras, ballets and dramatic groups, plus the popular Lebanese Folklore Troupe, drawing audiences of up to 5,000 people.

Seemed to be a case of man-bites-dog in the society dept. this week for, among the dozens of pictures delivered for publication, preponderance reflected (of all things) the bright and shining faces of men belonging to our community. Such change of pace, as refreshing as a new spring bonnet, determined today's spread—feminine contingent taking a back seat without a murmur. The panel of fatherhood teams includes Birmingham-Bloomfield freshmen at Dartmouth who recently entertained their dads over a weekend at the college. In addition to discussions with college officials, lectures and glee club concert, fathers lived with the young hosts in their dormitories, attended classes with them and dined together in Thayer Hall. Accent on esquire was further continued Saturday night when 40 couples, all members of Beverly Twelve (subdivision association), celebrated its fifth anniversary at a dinner dance in a Detroit restaurant. Guests of honor and recipients of engraved plaques were the organization's presidents, past and present.

Blithe Spirit

Must have been after we ran into them at Club Berkley a few nights back that Jane and Judge Beard decided (and we quote) to "ugh! go-on-a diet", for nobody, yet, has spooned up the Berk's famed turtle soup and remained sylph-like.

A starvation diet, however, hasn't dampened Jane's eternal enthusiasm, part of which she's expended on Christ Child Society's pre-Easter hat sale, same to take place Saturday from 10 a.m. to 3 p.m. in the Christ Child School at Lahser and Thirteen Mile.

There will be chic chapeaux for every age group—junior miss teen-ager, mom and grandmother—all ALL originals, contrived by talented hands of the members themselves.
