

College Bowl Winning Team Uses Resident

Bill Shaffer, son of Dr. and Mrs. Joseph Shaffer of 2401 Radnor Drive, Birmingham, was part of the four-member Ohio Wesleyan University winning team of scholars who participated last Sunday on the national television show, "NBC College Bowl."

In a quick intellectual question-and-answer game against the University of New York, the Ohio Wesleyans racked up a 230 to 115 score which entitled them to a $1,500 scholarship plus a chance to return next week and compete for more honors against another New York college, Maryland.

Shaffer, a senior history member, was chosen from among 2100 students to represent his school. A member of Sigma Alpha Epsilon fraternity, he is a graduate of Seaholm High School.

Gifts, grants and contracts for research totaling $594,079 have been accepted by the Wayne State University Board of Governors.

A social impact study in connection with the Community Renewal program is being conducted in the Institute of Regional and Urban Studies through a $105,000 contract from the City of Detroit Housing Commission. Among those directing the study scheduled for completion in February, 1965, is Dr. Charles Lebeaux, 476 S. Cranbrook, Birmingham, director of social work.

The Archives of American Art gave the first payment of $2,000 toward an annual grant of $10,000 a year to establish a Chair of American Art. Its grant will continue for five years.

SIX SCIENTIFIC research projects—five at the School of Medicine and one in the chemistry department—received a total of $135,501 from the U. S. Public Health Service, National Institutes of Health.

The American Medical Association Education and Research Foundation gave $31,983.87 to supplement the instructional and research programs in the School of Medicine.

A Biomechanics Research Center team will continue study on body impact tolerance for General Motors Corporation with a GM grant of $29,065. Ford Motor Company contributed $9,279 for research on injury evaluation of laminated windshields.

Student Aid Funds received $16,486.

Phone Answers Call for Help

Have a problem? Dial 833-4330.

"May we help you?" is the comforting way the confidential service begins hundreds of times each day at Community Information Service, a Torch Drive agency.

During the past year, 35 persons living in Birmingham, four in Bloomfield Hills, and two in Franklin got in touch with CIS when they needed help. Their needs may have involved getting nursing care in the home, psychiatric treatment for children or adults, adoption and boarding care services, legal aid, facilities for the aged, personal or family counseling, camping opportunities, financial aid, or anything else in the field of health, welfare or community service.

THE PROBLEM may be an aging father or a disturbed child, a failed marriage or eviction from a home, a distraught employee, or a destitute medical patient.

Trained, experienced social work counselors go to work quickly and efficiently. They "diagnose" the problem. Then they "prescribe" one of the hundreds of community agencies best equipped to help. There is no lost time, no embarrassment, no fee.

So many calls were received concerning services for the aged, that two years ago the CIS set up the Metropolitan Referral Service for the Aging, to help persons 60 years of age and older. In 1963, 1,466 requests for help were received by this service. Eight of those were from Birmingham, one from Bloomfield Hills.

If help can be found within the 650 agencies or even in any other community resource, CIS can get the request through.

Miss Fraser admits, however, that there may be problems for which there is no solution. "No service available," however, is the answer given to fewer than 1 per cent of the queries received last year.

A Bit of History

Birmingham City Commissioner Ralph A. Main displays one of his prize possessions, a land grant signed in 1783 by Benjamin Franklin. The sheepskin agreement was sent to Main many years ago by his father, Alex. of Beaver, Pa., where the treaty was drawn and signed by U.S. commissioners and by chiefs of the Wiamtot, Delaware, Chipewyan and Ottawa nations more than 180 years ago. The location of the land is in Beaver County near where Main's ancestors settled after the Revolutionary War.

Ground-Breaking Initiates Start Of Youth Homes

Construction of the Oakland County Children's Village for wards of the Probate Court, juvenile division, began yesterday with a ground-breaking ceremony on the 30-acre site located behind the Pontiac State Police Post at the County Service Center on Telegraph Road.

The initial three units, which are to be constructed this year, are planned to ease overcrowded conditions at the County Children's Center and provide separate facilities for problem youth.

LAST WEEK the Board of Supervisors awarded contracts for the three initial units at a total cost of $775,000. The facilities will be used for the rehabilitation of juveniles and will include two youth cottages (halfway houses) and a special services unit for youngsters with emotional problems.

Future plans call for the addition of 12 more units by 1980. Besides housing, the Village will include a school and special treatment facilities to prepare children to return to the community.

Prof. Stanley A. Cain of The University of Michigan has been appointed to a three-man committee to advise the National Park Service on its natural history study programs.

County College Promoters Mail 'Fact Letters'

Financial support for a community college campaign is being sought this week as letters from Wendell Brown, chairman of the community college Citizens Committee, reach 1,700 Oakland County residents.

A June 8 election date has been set for the three part community college proposal. The questions include establishment of a community college district, a one-mill tax levy for its support and election of a six-member board of trustees.

A spokesman for the committee, Brown asked individuals and organizations for cash donations to help defray the cost of distributing informational material to voters throughout the county. Lack of time and almost no campaign money to spread information are considered the major factors in the failure of the community college issue in June, 1963.

BROWN SAID contributions of time and service would also be welcomed. An initial 5,000 brochures outlining the purposes of a community college have been printed, as well as fact sheets about costs and operations of such a two-year institution. More information flyers will be printed when contributions permit.

Persons who can help with printing or duplication, telephoning and delivering flyers may call Mrs. Warren Smith, 1316 Wrenwood Drive, Birmingham.

Hockey Great Hosts Showings Of Cancer Film

Former Detroit Red Wing hockey star Ted Lindsay, 1964 Cancer Crusade Chairman for the Michigan Cancer Foundation's South Oakland Unit, hosted mayors and representatives of men's service, fraternal, veteran, and religious organizations of the area at a special showing of the new cancer educational film "Time Out for Living," last Monday at the American Legion Hall.

Lindsay, 3875 Oakland Drive, Birmingham, said this was the first step in a new cancer control program in South Oakland. Elected officials and club representatives at the showing were asked to urge their members, chapters and other local men's groups to book the program, the first directed exclusively towards educating men for better cancer prevention, at their meetings sometime during the next twelve months.

Lindsay will present at 10 open showings of the new film in South Oakland during April, nationally observed as Cancer Control Month. He will be accompanied by a physician who will answer questions from the audience.
