Red Cross Gives 'All Clear' For Area Injuries in Quake

No Birmingham-area relatives are known to be listed among Alaskan casualty reports, according to Don Miller, director of the Oakland County Chapter of the American Red Cross.

"I have dreaded checking the lists for the 250 county residents notifying us of relatives living in the disaster area, but none from here are among those injured," he said.

Miller said that more than $600 has been donated by county residents this week for the relief of individuals and families in the stricken area.

Miller pointed out that the $50 million appropriated by Congress will be used to rebuild public facilities, while the Red Cross has been designated by Alaskan Gov. William A. Egan as the agency to meet the individual needs of families, through donations.

A PERSONAL account of the earth-shattering events on Good Friday in Alaska were recorded by Grace Ormand, niece of Dr. John K. Ormand of 31080 Marlin Court, Birmingham. The following are excerpts taken from her letter written the day after the earthquake.

"I had just turned off the motor when the car started to move. I stamped on the brake, thinking something was wrong with the car. A few seconds later I realized it was an earthquake—and it went on and on, and got worse and worse.

"Lampoons awayed, parked cars moved up and down the streets all along the curbs. People rushed out into the middle of the streets. I was aware of a woman behind the car kneeling in the snow and clutching the parking meter.

"ELECTRIC LINES began to come down. I honestly thought we were all going to die on this Good Friday. The thought that came to my mind was 'and the earth quaked, and the veil of the temple from my shoulders,'" Main said. The 50-year-old engineer did not comment on possible plans for running for commission at some future date.

County Plans To Be Explored At Conference

Eldred H. Scott, vice president and controller of the Detroit Edison Co., will be keynote speaker at the Oakland County Planning Commission's spring conference.

Mayor Edward F. Dolan said that government officials and planners from cities, townships and villages and private citizens interested in the future of Oakland County are expected to attend the conference being held at Oakland University on Thursday, April 30.

An economist, Scott, 61, of 815 Riva road, Birmingham, is in charge of Detroit Edison's relations with the Michigan Public Service Commission.

THE COUNTY'S potential for economic growth and how it can be advanced is the conference theme. Numerous displays and panel discussions will be presented at the university's Oakland Center building. A dinner in the residents dining room will be followed by Scott's address.

Three separate panels comprising business, governmental and educational leaders will consider such questions as:

- what forces at the national, state and local levels influence the growth of Oakland County, but are beyond the control of the county?
- what is required at the Oakland County metropolitan area level to make economic growth possible?
- what can Oakland County communities do to encourage economic growth locally?

OK Purchase Of Equipment

Birmingham's small-try are going to have $1,500 worth of new playground equipment to play with this summer.

City commissioners Monday night approved the purchase of the equipment.

It will first be placed in Shain Park as part of the Centennial Week celebration and then moved to the recreation center at 14 Mile and Cranbrook roads as part of a permanent playground.

L. R. Gare, city manager, said the apparatus will consist of a rocket swing set, a pull-around animal unit, a steam engine climber with slide and a wooden seated "Buck Around."

Gare said that the cost of the equipment was provided in the budget for the development of the Cranbrook facility.

Eye Surgery Follows Realtor's Injury

Realtor B. F. Chamberlain, 27385 Rainbow Circle, Lathrup, underwent surgery early this week at Beaumont Hospital to remove a cataract which had formed over an eye injury.

Chamberlain was injured Feb. 15 when a bottle exploded while he was burning trash at his Warren office. A piece of glass was removed at the time.

He is expected to be in the hospital for ten days.

Bad Night For Names

BEVERLY HILLS—"This is a night for names!"

Great Lakes and State level influence the growth of Oakland County, but are beyond the control of the county?

"The laughter from the audience at this error referred to a mention previously during the evening by Robert G. Keydel that his name had been properly pronounced Kill by the presiding officer of the council.

"VERY FEW people pronounce it correctly, Mr. Cline," Keydel said. "My name is pronounced Gullmet," remarked the chairman.

Councilman Chester F. Gullmet, presiding for absent President Marvin B. Cline, made a quick switch of name plates to solve the problem.

our city as a distinctive place in which to live," Clippert said.

Page, a project director for the Ford Motor Co., won his second consecutive three-year term on the commission.

He said he believed the 1964 campaign "pointed out the fact we could improve our communication with the residents."

"DURING The weeks prior to the election literature had been distributed indicating the commission was in favor of expanding the business district.

Page said "next to doing the right thing, the most important obligation you have is to tell people you're doing the right thing."

"I believe we have a very positive program, oriented toward making Birmingham a better place in which to live.

"We should not wait, however, until a political campaign to put this point across," Page said. He cited several ways in which he believes the city may improve communication with residents.

"I think annual reports and other reports on a routine schedule which will explain and highlight the salient features of the programs which the commission has under way would benefit the residents," Page said.

MAIN, who has served in some governmental capacity since 1929, thanked the people of Birmingham for permitting him to serve for such a long period.

Main did, however, lash out at the small number of citizens who voted Monday.

"There are 13,467 voters registered in the city of Birmingham, 3,727 of which took enough pride in their voting franchise.

"The majority of the other 9,470 were just too complacent to bother about voting in a city election," Main said.

He called Birmingham "fortunate" in having candidates who were interested in their community and were sure those elected would do a "conscientious" job.

"As for myself my defeat was a blessing in disguise, for I already knew that the responsibility of annually spending some $2,500,000 of the Birmingham taxpayers' money wisely and the making of the important decisions has been lifted
