

ART FOR ARTS SAKE

Works by Glen Michaels Seem to Be Everywhere

This is Glen Michaels week. His assemblages are on view at the Cranbrook Academy of Art...

Little Gallery on Maple, his round assemblage illuminated the cover of Design Magazine published in New Delhi...

MICHAELS' most interesting pieces have already been completed in other parts of the country or are in process.

MICHAELS BEGAN to develop this media in his own personal way about six years ago when he started teaching the Tousse Art Center program at Cranbrook.

Washington and graduated from Yale's School of Music in 1950. His art, music and drawing, Michaels has had a book of cartoons and a book of musical clichés published.

WORK ON A master of the fine arts degree led him into ceramics, and he became greatly interested in the creative possibilities of paint and clay, later experimenting with what he terms "detectable junk."

THE EL AL herself mural in New York was credited by an editor of an architectural magazine as being the best mural in New York. It expresses various flights of fancy.

MICHAELS DOES NOT object to "commercial" commissions to promote an image. Many of the finest works of the past, including Michelangelo's Pieta were commissioned.

After all, there are always some limitations, the edge of the canvas, the size of a room. The World's Fair Ford mural is a large abstract map showing the location of Ford dealerships.

The first glance gives the feeling of stratified rock formations found by fortunate chance in nature. Further study reveals the complexity of concept.
