B'ham Woman Now Girls' Consultant

Appointment of Josephine A. Kelsey, 468 W. Frank Street, Birmingham, to the national staff of the W. F. S. Society for Girls in New York City, has been announced.

Miss Kelsey becomes field consultant of the Society (a girls' weekly activity of the Protestant Episcopal Church) in the province of the midwest. She will work in Indiana, Ohio, Illinois, Michigan, and Wisconsin, with headquarters in Indianapolis.

Miss Kelsey holds a bachelor of arts degree in American Studies from Wayne State University, and for five years she served on the staff of St. James Episcopal Church, Birmingham.

During the 13th century reign of King Edward I of England, the use of coal for fuel was a criminal offense, punishable by death. The reason for this stern prohibition was the widely held belief that coal smoke was poisonous.

Class on a Tour

As part of their travel unit study, 25 members of the third grade at Bloomfield Village School recently toured the production facilities at Pontiac Motor Division. They received a briefing on how cars are made prior to their guided tour down the assembly line.

Seaholm to Present Annual Water Ballet

By TRISH VARGA Special Writer

Seaholm's Aquabelle will present their annual water ballet production, "Showtime on Broadway" on April 23, 24 and 25 at 8:00 p.m. in the Maple pool.

After many weeks of vigorous rehearsals, the swimmers are prepared to give three lively and well-polished performances. This year's show will contain music from shows such as "Cameo," "South Pacific," "Oklahoma" and "Exodus." The top twelve Aquabelles will perform in the overture.

THE GIRLS include Katrina Beneker, Katie Burzum, Gretchen Christi, Barb Elliott, Teri Fournier, Vicki Hogan, Mary Holland, Chris Jensen, Kathy Kennedy, Martha Russ, Sue Thalacker and Nicki Sears.

Two solo numbers will be presented by Martha Russ and Kathy Kennedy. Martha will swim to "Exodus" while Kathy swims to "Camelet." Aquabelle officers are Barb Elliott, president; Janis Finley, treasurer and Kathy Kennedy, secretary. Miss Sue Dhooge is the adviser.

TWO NEW courses being offered in summer school this year are creative writing and expository writing. Both will be half-credit courses.

Mr. Buell, summer school principal, stated these courses would give seniors and other students a good background for college writing. Registration for those planning to attend the summer program is scheduled for June 1-12.

Seaholm's annual AFS-YFU drive ended April 17 with a "Bermuda Day." Students wishing to wear bermudas to school were requested to purchase a Bermuda button for a quarter.

The money made during the week-long drive will be used to bring foreign exchange students to Seaholm next year.

WITH ONLY 32 more days of actual school work left, the seniors are truly on their last leg of three years at SHS. These last weeks will be crowded with many varied and memorable activities.

Traditional events such as Senior Dinner, Senior Skip Day, Swing-out, Baccalaureate and Commencement presently are being planned by special committees and the Senior advisers.

Barnum Jr. Latin Scholars Attend '64 Roman Banquet

By JEAN GIBNEY Special Writer

Mrs. Don Groves, mother of the late Captain Michael Groves, an ex-Barnum student, visited informally with the Press Club after school Tuesday, April 14.

Mrs. Groves spoke of her son's work as Captain of President Kennedy's funeral Honor Guard, and other facets of his important military career which began in the Birmingham schools.

Mrs. Groves showed pictures and awards to illustrate the memorials paid her famous son following his death last November. She then presented the school with a copy of Captain Groves's citation, which will be placed in the school library for future reference.

ON FRIDAY, April 10, Barnum Latin scholars attended a "Cena Romana" at Derby. Arriving at 5:30 in Roman attire, the Latin students were ushered into the cafeteria, transformed to a banquet hall.

There they were served roast pig, chicken and fish. They then retired to the gym and were entertained by various performances.

Cranbrook students resumed classes on Wednesday, April 15, after a long spring recess. For most, the last term of the school year will be especially busy as Prefect elections, the World Affairs Seminar and other important events are coming up soon.

For Seniors, the past week has been frustrating in some cases, rewarding in others. Each day signs of relief and groans of anguish can be heard in the school Post Office as the boys receive notices of admission or rejection from colleges.

ALL THREE of Cranbrook's spring sports squads, track, tennis, and baseball, took Southern trips again this year during vacation. The track team trained in Chapel Hill, N. C., the tennis group in the Cincinnati, O. area, and the baseball squad in various places in North Carolina and Virginia.

from the different attending schools. Among Barnum's entertainers were the "Wheelers" and groups from the Latin I classes.

On Friday, April 9, Miss Monica Nuppenan from Hamburg, Germany visited Barnum classes. She has been in America since March and is teaching at Bloomfield Country Day School. Amazingly enough she teaches English and Latin!

She majored in these languages from the fifth grade when she attended school in Germany. She is a graduate of Hamburg University and has come here to compare our school systems and teaching techniques with those in her country.

SHE ANSWERED questions the students asked. Most of the questions were about the school systems in Germany and the answers were very interesting.

Some of the main points she made were that there are three schools before college in her country instead of our two. These are the elementary, the high school and the middle school. Each school is devoted to different types of education. For example, the high school deals mainly with language and science.

Other secondary schools give students vocational and technical training. Students are hoping that Miss Monica, as she is known at Bloomfield Country Day, will visit Barnum again.

After their evening performance, the eighth grade play cast and crew of "The Happy Days" were entertained at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Purvis. A cake with school colors and the name of the play written on top was presented to the cast by Mrs. Purvis. The players gave Mr. Staron, their advisor, a tie clasp and a book.
