

Pancake Supper and Open House Held at East Hills

By Betsy Blosser
Special Writer

Monday night, April 27, was the date of the second annual Pancake Supper and Open House at East Hills Junior High School. This highly anticipated event was sponsored by the E.H.J.H. Student Council. Hardworking student co-chairmen were Dave Woland and Bob Jaffe, Mary Leversuch was in charge of publicity, and Mr. Keven, teacher-sponsor of the council. A ticket selling contest was open to all energetic students. Bruce Godfrey triumphantly reclaimed the title of "First Place East Hills Junior High School Pancake Supper Ticket Seller" with a grand total of 160 tickets and was awarded with a radio for his efforts.

The other winners in the school-wide contest were in 2nd place, Chris Kingsley, 7th grade, with 47 tickets, who received a watch; 3rd place: Jim Thompson, 7th grade, receiving a check after selling 43 tickets, and in 4th place was Peggy Amos, 8th grade, winning a watch for her 30 tickets.

EXHIBITS FROM the Science Fair which is also a second year annual event were displayed in the biology room. Trophies were presented to the originators of the following projects:

1st place—Candy Goetz and Linda Farrotti—cat dissection, 2nd place—James Lambek—display illustrating forest-floor chains, 3rd place—Alexandra (Alex) Adams—dissection of a fetal pig and the construction of a bird skeleton, 4th place—Bubbe Walters—effect of a male sex hormone on female chicks, and 5th place—Bob Fulton—condenser experiment.

The East Hills music department under the direction of Mr.

Lively, conductor, gave an excellent half hour program which included a variety to the evening's activities.

NUMEROUS highlights for the evening came from the language department. A modern version of "Caperucita Roja" or "Little Red Riding Hood" was presented by the Spanish Club. The cast was as follows: "Little Red"—Debbie Bartlett, the mother—Linda Clark, the wolf (not the animal version)—Mark Halverson, the hunter—Steve Freers, the grandmother—Sue Thomas, Bugs Bunny—Cheryl Rediske, Mickey Mouse—Mary MacKellar, Robin Hood—Shelley Shannon, and the narrator—Linda Hong.

The French Club presented some amusing skits. French Club members who participated in the skits are: Kevin Krane, Phil Tappert, James Thompson, Earnest Sted, Kathy Skinner, Debbie Earl, Pam Jerome, Jill Oliver, Gail Niemeyer, Harolyn McElyea, Virginia Waylett, Susan Linabury and Molly May.

Others are Julie Spina, Nancy Edmunds, Jim Brown, Sue and Kay Montgomery, Sue Cabral, Mary Olsen, Shelley Cooney, Doug McGraw, Doug Jaaksi, Carolyn Podlesak, Kristine Staas, Shirley Lekich, Linda Buhner and Terry Niggeman as pianist.

WINNERS of a clotheopin decorating contest were: in the beauty category—Pat Sadler, for the humor—Carole Rummel, and most original—Daryl Rasche. Pieces of carpentry work were entered in the Craftsman's Fair sponsored by Mr. Corcoran, industrial arts teacher.

Cranbrook Slates Annual World Affairs Seminar

By BOB LAKIN
Special Writer

The annual Cranbrook World Affairs Seminar was held last Thursday and Friday simultaneously at Cranbrook and Kingswood.

Some 46 boys and nearly as many girls participated in the discussion of this year's topic "Nationalism in Africa."

THE STUDENTS were divided into two groups who heard from men in uniform Emmanuel Obe, Head of Chancery, Embassy of Nigeria; Michael C. Newman, Information Advisor for Rhodesia Affairs, English Embassy; and several experts on Kenya and the Congo from Wayne State University and Michigan State University.

Following speeches a question by these men, students asked questions and held brief discussions with the guests.

Drummin' Up Business

Three members of the Seaholm band practice their number for the school's Spring Concert, scheduled for 8 p.m. tonight in the Seaholm gym. The drummers are (from left) Charles Wessels, Jim Fox and Charles Dick. They will be featured in a trio, "Haskell's Rascals" by Paul Yoder. The program will include a few numbers the band played when they were given a first division rating at the district festival.

Barnum Jr. Students Hold May Day Fair

By JEAN GIBNEY
Special Writer

After weeks of careful planning, the Barnum Student Body presented its first May Day Fair on Friday, May 1, through the organization of Student Council and Presidents Club representatives each home room was responsible for an entertainment or refreshment booth.

The highlight of the gala evening was the crowning of the May Day Queen. The candidates were: Ninth graders—Janice Poplack, Kathy Mott, Ellen Bishop, Sandy Winslow and Nancy Tallburt, Eighth graders—Sally Hutchinson and Judy Sumner; and Seventh graders—Cathy Jensen, Sue Murray, and Sue Sutton.

All proceeds from the fair will go to support Barnum's pestel club and activities.

ON FRIDAY, April 24, the Barnum Electronics Club held its first dance. Entitled the "Firefly Fling," the dance featured live music by Seaholm's Continentals. The club will use the profits for purchasing more equipment for the school's ham radio station.

ON APRIL 23, Barnum English students attended an assembly of Mr. Manley Bailey's slides on early Birmingham. The assembly was held in the Barnum auditorium with its new curtains entirely purchased by the Junior Players.

The slides of early Birmingham included the first grist mill, houses, stores, the first fire engine and the first library, as well as the first school building which still forms a part of Barnum. All in all, Mr. Bailey's presentation made the centennial very real to those attending the assembly.
