

Woodward Avenue, from just north of Maple, in 1916.

Pierce, looking south from Maple, today.

There's no way of telling how many of our best ideas were born in Birmingham

But we do know, though, that the Birmingham area is where a lot of GM people head at the end of the day. Where they come to shop and visit and talk things over. Where they can relax and review the events of the day in a fresh, new light. And where, often, they'll come up with new approaches, new ideas and new ways to improve GM products. So it's with a very special feeling for Birmingham that we say

Happy Birthday from General Motors