Celebration Touches Many Areas of Community Life

BY MARY BARN Staff Writer

A crowd of a thousand people, Mrs. H. Howard Wiltz, extended to the number of residents participating in the Birmingham Centennial, which was celebrated on May 14.

The Centennial celebration has been observed in various areas of community life and activities participating. The celebration was organized by the Birmingham Centennial Committee, which was set up in 1962 to plan and organize the event.

A highlight of the celebration was the parade, which featured floats, bands, and community organizations. The parade was followed by a picnic at人民公园, where residents enjoyed food, music, and games.

The celebration also included a special program at the Birmingham Community Center, where speakers discussed the history and development of the community.

The Birmingham Centennial Committee plans to continue the celebration throughout the year, with events planned for every season.