B’ham Public Schools Join In City’s Centennial Week

Birmingham’s public schools will play an important part in the city’s 100th birthday celebration which starts on May 17 through May 24. The festivities will start at Derby Junior High School Friday, May 17, and through Sunday, May 19, will highlight the school’s participation.

The Birmingham school system, with all grades included, will show off their skills to the public in both its instructional and auxiliary efforts. More than 1,000 art exhibits will be on display from students of elementary and secondary schools.

THE EXHIBIT will be open to the public on Monday, Thursday, and Friday, 7:30 a.m. to 8 p.m., with students demonstrating their individual talents from 1:30 p.m. to 5:30 p.m.

In the special week, the public will be able to view the exhibits of the Birmingham Central High School, Wednesday, May 19, from 7:30 a.m. to 4 p.m., while on Sunday the hours will be from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m.

All students will take part in an exciting and very important event during Central’s 100th year celebration, the opening of a new classroom building. A school program will be held at 3 p.m.

Each classroom and school will schedule events parallel to the general theme of the week. Science, music, art, and physical education will all be included. The central high school will be open for the entire week.
