College

(Continued from 2-3)

The three-year program should also include a study of economics, government, and history. These subjects will provide a solid foundation for future study in a number of fields.

The programs offered at the College of Business Administration include those in accounting, finance, business management, and marketing. The four-year program should include courses in these fields as well as in mathematics, economics, and statistics.

The College of Engineering offers programs in civil, mechanical, electrical, and computer engineering. The five-year program should include courses in these fields as well as in mathematics, physics, and chemistry.

The College of Law offers a three-year program in law. The program should include courses in constitutional law, contracts, torts, and property law.

The College of Social Sciences offers programs in sociology, anthropology, and political science. The four-year program should include courses in these fields as well as in psychology and economics.

The College of Humanities offers programs in English, history, and philosophy. The three-year program should include courses in these fields as well as in mathematics and physics.

The College of Fine Arts offers programs in music, theater, and visual arts. The four-year program should include courses in these fields as well as in mathematics and physics.

The College of Health Sciences offers programs in nursing, physical therapy, and occupational therapy. The four-year program should include courses in these fields as well as in mathematics and physics.

The College of Education offers programs in elementary education, secondary education, and special education. The four-year program should include courses in these fields as well as in mathematics and physics.

College

(Continued from 3-5)

The programs offered at the College of Business Administration include those in accounting, finance, business management, and marketing. The four-year program should include courses in these fields as well as in mathematics, economics, and statistics.

The College of Engineering offers programs in civil, mechanical, electrical, and computer engineering. The five-year program should include courses in these fields as well as in mathematics, physics, and chemistry.

The College of Law offers a three-year program in law. The program should include courses in constitutional law, contracts, torts, and property law.

The College of Social Sciences offers programs in sociology, anthropology, and political science. The four-year program should include courses in these fields as well as in psychology and economics.

The College of Humanities offers programs in English, history, and philosophy. The three-year program should include courses in these fields as well as in mathematics and physics.

The College of Fine Arts offers programs in music, theater, and visual arts. The four-year program should include courses in these fields as well as in mathematics and physics.

The College of Health Sciences offers programs in nursing, physical therapy, and occupational therapy. The four-year program should include courses in these fields as well as in mathematics and physics.

The College of Education offers programs in elementary education, secondary education, and special education. The four-year program should include courses in these fields as well as in mathematics and physics.

College

(Continued from 3-5)

The programs offered at the College of Business Administration include those in accounting, finance, business management, and marketing. The four-year program should include courses in these fields as well as in mathematics, economics, and statistics.

The College of Engineering offers programs in civil, mechanical, electrical, and computer engineering. The five-year program should include courses in these fields as well as in mathematics, physics, and chemistry.

The College of Law offers a three-year program in law. The program should include courses in constitutional law, contracts, torts, and property law.

The College of Social Sciences offers programs in sociology, anthropology, and political science. The four-year program should include courses in these fields as well as in psychology and economics.

The College of Humanities offers programs in English, history, and philosophy. The three-year program should include courses in these fields as well as in mathematics and physics.

The College of Fine Arts offers programs in music, theater, and visual arts. The four-year program should include courses in these fields as well as in mathematics and physics.

The College of Health Sciences offers programs in nursing, physical therapy, and occupational therapy. The four-year program should include courses in these fields as well as in mathematics and physics.

The College of Education offers programs in elementary education, secondary education, and special education. The four-year program should include courses in these fields as well as in mathematics and physics.