Girl Scouts Weather Storm At Troop's First Camp-Out

By ELEANOR NELSON

BLOOMFIELD SOUTH

It will be a long time before the girls of Girl Scout Troop No. 165 from the Bloomingdale School forget their very first camp-out. The date was May 8, when the junior ringleaders climbed into their station wagon and set out on a tour of the Long Island area. The destination was the Stony Brook State Park, where the girls were to spend the night in tents. The weather was fair, and the girls were all excited about their adventure. They enjoyed exploring the woods and fields, and had a great time making new friends.

First place honors were won by the group, with both boys' and girls' sections being awarded. The girls were presented with a gold pin, a silver pin, and a bronze pin, which they were to wear with pride. The girls also had a chance to practice some of their camping skills, such as setting up their own tents and cooking over an open fire. Overall, it was a memorable experience for all involved.

The wedding, set for Saturday, June 6, will be preceded by a visit from a fire engine staffed by the bride and groom. The reception will be held in the Bloomingdale School auditorium, and the ceremony will take place at the school.
