Assembling a Newspaper

The putting together of a 136-page newspaper is no easy task as employees of the Birmingham Eccentric bindery department well know. The special Colonial-Centennial commemorative Edition No. 1, six people including (top) Scott Witherspoon, Mildred Miller and Babbie Killway, five days to compile 30,000 copies. Last Wednesday night a crew of 25 men and women (bottom) worked from 4 p.m. until 4 a.m. to get the paper ready for Thursday morning delivery. The tabloid sections were put together in a special building on S. Adams headed for the project.

THOUGHT FOR THE DAY...

"...let no one think that it is safe to lie down on your pillow at night and trust to your subconscious mind to bring your problems to your attention. Try a conscious attention to your problems at some other time when you believe you can do something about them." - Norman Vincent Peale
