By MARTI CARN

C. Norman Fry selected a new plantation on May 14. He reached the fiftieth anniversary of his birth on the Biltmore Plantation this year, but no celebration was held there. Ralph and Nellie Angell were his only children, and there were many grandchildren, great-grandchildren, and great-great-grandchildren. Today the family gathered on the plantation to celebrate Ralph's birthday.

Parties for him began on Thursday evening with a celebration with family and friends. That evening, the family enjoyed a barbecue and music, followed by a traditional birthday cake. The guests included members of the family, friends, and neighbors.

On Friday, the family continued to celebrate with a formal dinner at the plantation. The evening included speeches, toasts, and music. The atmosphere was warm and welcoming.

On Saturday, a charity benefit was held on the plantation to raise funds for a local charity. The event included auctions, live music, and a delicious buffet. The guests were happy to support a good cause.

On Sunday, the family gathered for a simple lunch and a relaxed day. The day was spent enjoying each other's company and reminiscing about the past.

The festivities continued on Monday with a trip to the beach. The family spent the day sunbathing and swimming, enjoying the beautiful weather.

In conclusion, Ralph's 50th birthday was a wonderful celebration of a life well-lived. The family was grateful for the opportunity to come together and share in the joy of this special occasion.
