Fortified Feet is Only Way To Enjoy NY World's Fair

By GLORIA JESSUP

Those of you who are anticipating a trip to the New York World's Fair—take a tip not only from Mrs. Douglas Beaudry but from many others who have just returned. Take as many pairs of LOW heels as you own because the more you take the better fortified you are and the more you will enjoy the fair.

Mr. and Mrs. Douglas Beaudry of Sodon Lake Drive returned recently from a five day whirlwind trip to New York and of course—the Fair. An added attraction that they experienced during their visit was learning — "How To Murder Your Wife."

In the short time they were in New York, they saw only enough of the movie, starring Jack Lemmon, to arouse their interest for a later date. The production was taking place across from the street from the Hilton where the Beaudrys stayed during their New York visit.

MR. AND MRS. John G. Green of Thornbrie Way enjoyed a visit with Mrs. Green's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Joseph F. Berard over last weekend. Accompanying the Berards on the trip from Buffalo, N.Y. was Mrs. Green's uncle, Paul W. Berard, who had just returned from Pakistan and will soon be on his way to Istanbul for the Foreign Service Branch of the State Department. Although it was a short holiday weekend, the residents of the Bloomfield area made the most of it. Coming from their New Jersey home to spend the weekend with Mr. and Mrs. Wright Manel of Orchard Bend Road were Mr. and Mrs. A. R. Van Vorst.

CULTURAL enthusiast, Mrs. Elwood Engel of Franklin Road has changed her plans for her trip to Mexico to study for a five week period. Mrs. Engel is staying for the concerts at Meadowbrook and can be contacted for tickets to the concerts.

Monday evening Mrs. Engel attended the opera with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Imboden of Bloomfield Hills having dined at the D.A.C. preceding the opening night performance.

Thursday evening Mrs. Engel's guest was Mrs. Jack Leitch of Royal Oak. They accompanied Mr. and Mrs. Lynn Townsend. Kim Obata of Tokyo, Japan, who is the houseguest of Mr. and Mrs. Engel, attended Friday evening performance of the opera.

PAINT UP! That's the thing to do these sunny days. So, if you zoomed up West Quaton

Road and saw a paint covered female in a yellow sweat shirt (my son's) that was your columnist—trying to paint her mail box post. Well, if you didn't see me—thank goodness.

But don't be surprised if you see another group of painters on the 6th and 7th of June. They will be the stout hearted men of the Glencoe Estates who have been volunteered for the fence painting project to take place on these same dates. Stop praying for rain gentlemen—it's got to be done—so they say.

RECENT returns from the "Fair" are Mr. and Mrs. Robert Asmann of Burning Tree Drive. Mr. Asmann preceded Mrs. Asmann East by three months for an advancement course at the General Electric School at Crotonville, New York. Wives were invited for graduation.

Following the graduation ceremonies, Mr. and Mrs. Asmann journeyed to New York. During the few days of relaxation they attended the New York World's Fair and also the plays, "Barefoot in The Park" and "Funny Girl."

THE CHILDREN outnumbered the parents by 14 when the Jack Bulls held their annual Memorial Day party. One hundred thirty friends and family gathered at the Bull home on Quaton Road for the eighth annual get-together on Saturday.

IT WAS a very busy schedule for the members of the Bloomfield Heights branch, WNFCA, when they met recently for their May meeting. They gathered, as usual, at ten in the morning to enjoy coffee and rolls and exchange plants from their respective gardens. The hostess was Mrs. Douglas Beaudry in her Sodon Lake Drive home.

Prizes were awarded at the conclusion of the bridge tournament. Mrs. Ralph Gibout walked off with first prize. Mrs. Samuel Sachs was second, and Mrs. George Moxton won third prize. Mrs. Fred Eilber assisted Mrs. Beaudry in pouring at the punch table before the group of 35 adjourned for luncheon at Pine Lake Country Club.

THE NEXT regular meeting of the Still Meadow Garden Club will be held June 9 at the home of Mrs. Louis Neuman on Thornbrier Way. Guests of the group's recent telephone bridge party, held to raise money to beautify the Still Meadow Subdivision, were Mesdames John Springer, Malcolm MacDougall, Lee Griffin, Carolyn McQuain, Irene Whitman, James Chamberlin, William Berridge, William Baxter, Neil Smith and Mrs. Fred Nibbelink.

Alaskan Visitors
BINGHAM FARMS — Visiting here from Kodiak, Alaska are Mr. and Mrs. Frederick E. Pyeatt III and their three daughters, Linda, Patti and Sandra. Mrs. Pyeatt is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas George, 23100 Sager Court.

Betrothed

Mr. and Mrs. J. F. McKelvey of Ottumwa, Ia., announce the betrothal of their daughter, Linda Sue, to John C. Horner, son of Mr. and Mrs. C. E. Horner of Birmingham. John is a graduate of Drake University, Des Moines, Ia., planning to return there to attend law school following an August wedding.

He May Be Retired But in What Language?

By MARTI CAHN

Last November we interviewed several retired local business "execs" and reported on their hobbies and activities. One was Wheeler G. Lovell, 1900 Apple Lane, Bloomfield Hills. Until his retirement, he was director of chemical research for Ethyl Corp. in Detroit.

Mrs. Lovell, who occasionally keeps us current with affairs of the willfully unemployed, reports that Wheeler (called "Weeder" by his friend, Popey) gardens, maintains a greenhouse, feeds the wild geese that visit his lake, makes wild grape jelly and has an additional interest. He is current vice chairman of the Oakland Planning Division of United Community College Services, is on the Speakers Bureau of the Community College Citizens committee of Oakland County and Creek gathered to honor Mr. and Mrs. Alfred Boegehold of Erie Drive. Mr. Boegehold is joining the ranks of the willfully unemployed, having retired from General Motors Research. He and Mrs. Boegehold are moving to their new home in Bronxville, N.Y.

He is current vice chairman of the Oakland Planning Division of United Community College Services, is on the Speakers Bureau of the Community College Citizens committee of Oakland County and is a candidate for the post of trustee for the proposed Oakland Community College. Retired? Hmm?

ANDREE Galladet, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Francis C. Galladet of 5 Shadow Lane, Bloomfield Hills, will become the bride of Roger Raymond Anderson, son of Mr. and Mrs. Ludvig Anderson of Milwaukee, Wis., on Saturday at a one o'clock ceremony in St. Hugo of the Hills Church.

Andree (better known as Andy) has enjoyed a full measure of bridal parties, including a tea and linen shower given by Mrs. John R. McDonald and Mrs. J. Beach Williamson at Mrs. McDonald's home on Shadow Lane, Mrs. Carl Sundberg and daughter, Mrs. Robert Riley, entertained at a dinner party and lingerie shower at Mrs. Sundberg's home on Marcel Drive, Bloomfield Hills, and Mrs. Henry D. Weed, Jr., of Franklin and Mrs. James P. Cummiskey, Jr., gave a "his 'n her's" shower Saturday evening at Mrs. Cumiskey's home on GreenTree Road.

MRS. JOSEPH L. Newman will entertain today at a luncheon in her home on Lowell Ct., Bloomfield Hills, in honor of Mrs. Harold W. H. Burrows of Birmingham on her birthday. Among those joining the celebration will be Mrs. Julian G. McIntosh and Mrs. C. D. Smith of the Detroit Towers; Mrs. William E. Johnston of the Lee Plaza; Mrs. Walter Sheets of the Chatsworth, Bal Harbour, Fla., and Romeo, and Mrs. B. Larry Norton of Westwood Drive, Birmingham.

Society Dept. deadline for all organizational n.e.w.s, wedding and engagements announcement is 5 p.m. on the Friday preceding Thursday publication.
