

Business Leadership Cited

Doctoral Citation for Aloysius F. Power (left) of Bloomfield Hills, recipient of an honorary LL.D. degree from Iona College, New Rochelle, N. Y., cited his distinguished leadership in business and his concern for justice and for his fellowman as well as his combining the expertise of civil law with the complexities of corporate administration. Some 3,000 heard Power, general counsel of General Motors Corp., deliver the commencement address during the college's 20th annual exercises at which His Eminence Francis Cardinal Spellman (center), Archbishop of New York, presided. Iona president, Rev. Brother Richard B. Power (right) conferred the honorary doctorate on Power and baccalaureate degrees on 463 men.

FEDC on Deck At Hunt Fair

The Foundation for Emotionally Disturbed Children will have a booth at the Bloomfield Hunt Fair June 28-29. Gift shop items will be sold in the gayly decorated booth.

All profits go to the Foundation for Emotionally Disturbed Children at Pontiac State Hospital. Mrs. Dale O. Miller, Jr., 6015 Snowhove Circle, Birmingham, is chairman of the fund raising venture for FEDC.

ing the FEDC president, Mrs. Louis J. Colombo, Jr. Mrs. Colombo has been working for the children at Pontiac State Hospital since 1952 when she began her volunteer work at the hospital.

MRS. T. I. Homewood presented a gift to Mrs. Colombo from many of the board members, volunteers and friends. It was a check exceeding $800 to be used to buy a needed item for the new children's unit at the hospital. The gift will be given in Mrs. Colombo's name.

Mrs. Mayford L. Roark, 5505 Raven Road, Birmingham, opened her home to members of the FEDC board and many volunteers who work with the children at Pontiac State Hospital throughout the year.
