The Beauty Of Living In The Past

Nearly all of us can search our memories for those glorious days of years gone by, and whether we are 25 or 85, we can recollect fond thoughts that never again will be the same. It is a shame, though, that few of us can think back to Early America, for if we could, the warmth and gaiety of this period would probably find us saying to ourselves, "I wish I lived in those days." Well! Perhaps you can, for we invite you to take a walk through Early America. We know you'll be pleasantly surprised to see our authenticated galleries. They contain a multitude of selected pieces from the Colonial days, in settings that so typify the era of Colonization, that you'll feel like a pioneer.

NORTH ADAMS

Young Artist, 11, Earns Praise for Boar Painting

BY ELIZABETH YATES MI 6-1682

There is a young artist out North Adams way who has never had an art lesson but is fast building himself a reputation with all age groups. The artist is 11-year-old Don Huggins of Westchester Road, son of Mr. and Mrs. James Huggins.

One of his paintings, a wild boar done in shades of gray, black and a touch of gold has been admired by many when they visited the Eastover School this spring.

This fascinating boar was given to a buddy, who in turn, brought it home on graduation day from Eastover School. The buddy and his family were so intrigued with the painting they framed it and placed it in their den. Some day in the future John Yates and his family will say to the admiring public: "Yes, this is one of the artist's first paintings—we knew him when he was 11."

OTHERS IN the Huggins family have a natural talent in the sketching and painting field. Going up the ladder they include seven-year-old Mary; Bill, who will be a ninth grader at East Hills Junior High this fall; June, a June graduate from Bloomfield Hills High, who will study physical therapy at the University of Wisconsin this fall; and Pat, who was awarded a Traub Scholarship for outstanding art work last year and traveled through Europe for a month last summer and is now attending Oakland University.

THE EASTOVER SCHOOL library has opened its doors to young readers of the school area through the month of July. The library hours are from 11:30 a.m. to 1 p.m. on Mondays and Thursdays and each child may choose two books per week. Parents are asked to accompany their child or children on the first visit to the library.

The Eastover summer recreation program has entered its second summer schedule. Children in the first through third grades are enjoying a variety of activity during their morning sessions.

The older groups, which include fourth through sixth grades, are active in a sports program that includes swimming instruction three times a week, hikes and crafts.

AREA BOY SCOUTS will join 450 Scouts and their leaders at Michigan's Central Depot on July 14 for a train trip to

Garden Club Holds Picnic

The Little Garden Club held a picnic luncheon recently in the Jeanette Shardlow Memorial Building on the grounds of the Pontiac State Hospital.

Mrs. William Burlingame of Oakhills Drive, Mrs. Ralph Sasser of Sufferd and Mrs. Lloyd Sheppard of Kewick Road, Bloomfield Hills, were hostesses.

The building was, at one time, an old vegetable storehouse near the restored greenhouses, unused for many years. It was Mrs. Shardlow's request that it be turned into a garden house. Through her memorial fund it has now been turned into a classroom to be used for an eight-week course on horticultural therapy for college students.

AS THE FIRST teaching center of its kind, various other large hospitals in our nation are watching the program, hoping to set up more classroom centers. The center will be using as its main text book "Therapy Through Horticulture," written by Birmingham's own Alice Burlingame.

A slide program was given by Mrs. Burlingame, assisted by Mrs. Eleanor McCurdy and Sam Bridges, director in charge of the greenhouses.

A tour of the grounds completed the trip to see garden areas in which 15 different garden clubs have about 25 projects going.

Drive. They have four children, Bill, 11, at home; Mrs. Gerald Huth of Endicott, N.Y.; and Carl, Jr., and Kenneth, both residents of Detroit. Mr. Rigg is secretary treasurer of Swartz Foundry and is interested in Boy Scout work. Mrs. Rigg is active in church work.

THE GEORGE SOLD family of Walnut Hill Drive have been on a tour of the East for the past two weeks. While Mr. Sold attended a series of meetings at the University of Miami the family visited surrounding areas. The family toured the state of New York before settling down at the World's Fair for a few days of their vacation.

The Carl Rigg of Detroit are newcomers to Malvern
