

New 'Carpet' Leads to Rehearsal Party

BY MARION CASKEY

The Arthur Hayes of Apple-tree Lane really spread out the royal carpet for his guests Friday night, but spent some anxious hours Thursday wondering if it would be dry.

I'm referring to the brand new pavement put down on Apple-tree the day before Art and Mary Ellen gave a rehearsal dinner for son Ed and his Saturday bride, Mary Knapp, of Walled Lake. Twenty guests returned to the Hayes home after rehearsing at the Walled Lake Baptist Church.

Daughter Mary Edith, a bridesmaid, practically needed no carpet at all, as she all but floated in on a cloud.

ARMED WITH claw crackers, 14 neighbors of Bob and Betty Schaefer's Roberts Drive drove into steamed clams and lobster last week end. The guests delighted in squinting one another with lobster juice but the wise hosts had provided all with ample bibs for protection.

More sadate was the gathering cohosted by Mrs. John Longley and Mrs. Harold Geiger Saturday afternoon. Mutual friends of the two couples enjoyed cocktails in the shady comfort of the yard of the Longleys' Bingham Road home.

LYNN SETTLE used her birthday, July 14, to hostess a backyard cookout for her nine-year-old contemporaries.

Then the Settles climaxed the busy week by journeying to Winchester, Ky., to visit grandparents and get in some swimming and golfing "down home."

USING DAUGHTER Kathy's windup at Camp-Arkansas as the incentive, the Fred McNabbs enjoyed a three-day holiday in the top of Michigan territory.

They first checked in at the Colonial Inn at Harbor Springs and then toured up to the straits to see the bridge and explore Mackinac Island. Tuesday they picked up Kathy from camp and returned to their Apple-tree Lane home.

NEIGHBORS OF the DiGiovannis of Roberts Drive executed a different sort of surprise shower for them on the Bjornson's patio last Friday night.

DiGiovanni's daughter, Delphine, is marrying Gerry McCormick Aug. 1, so the neighbors threw a "parents' shower." Delphine and Gerry particularly enjoyed watching mom and dad open all their silly gifts.

THE BEGONIAS were coaxed to their finest bloom for the guests at the George Ghazel home on Colony Hill Road last week end. The couples from Kentucky, the Malcolm Blevins of Lexington and the Pryor Howers of Shelbyville, were treated to a cruise on Detroit's waterways up to Port Huron last Friday. Dinner at Fisherman's Wharf afforded them a magnificent view of the boats sailing up to start the Port Huron to Mackinac race. Then they anchored on a sand bar at Strawberry Island and took a swim.

Mrs. George Strumbos of Suzanne Road enjoyed her initiation into acting in a Players' one-act so much that spring, that she enrolled in the Will-O-Way Apprentice Theater School this summer. She did very well as the aunt in the performance of "All the Way Home."

THE CLAUDE COOK daughters, Mary and Janie, just returned from Oklahoma City last week. Claude's twin brother, Clyde, and his family hosted the girls, but a great deal of their visit was spent commuting to Ft. Still where Mary's fiance, Willard Valpey, is stationed. Though the girls reassured dad that they didn't drive fast, they returned the trip back as far as Benton Harbor in 17 hours and called Claude from there to wish him a happy birthday.

Southern journeys seem to be popular with Franklin families.

The Robert Hampson girls, Jane and Nancy, are in Martinsville, Va., visiting their grandmother.

Blackwell-Steyaert Vows Repeated at Ceremonies

A noon ceremony Monday at Our Lady Queen of Martyrs Church united Carol Anne Blackwell and Joseph William Steyaert. The double-ring ceremony was performed by Fr. James Frenza, a friend of the groom.

Parents of the newlyweds are Mr. and Mrs. Henry W. Blackwell, 1899 Norfolk, Birmingham, and Mr. and Mrs. C. Joseph Steyaert of Detroit.

The bride wore a white gown of silk organza with Alencon lace enhancing the train and midriff. The gown was styled with a controlled skirt, short sleeves and a Sabrina neckline.

A CIRCLET of white organza covered with matching lace secured her fingertip veil. She carried a cascade bouquet of cymbidium orchids and stephanotis.

Barbara Blackwell, sister of the bride, was chosen as honor attendant. Bridesmaids were Suzanne Payette and Eileen Sabo, both of Royal Oak.

They wore aqua silk organza over taffeta gowns designed with a short bell skirt and an over-jacket of white lace. They carried a cascade of yellow and white carnations.

Serving as best man was Howard Motlin of Warren. Seating the guests were Robert Blackwell of Birmingham and Michael Chokal of Royal Oak.

Guests were later received at the Birmingham Country Club. A trip to the Upper Peninsula

Guests Asked To Wear Blue At Club Gala

A poolside dinner party highlighted by a sing-along and show of men and women's fashions is on the agenda of the Bloomfield Open Hunt Club for July 30, ladies' committee night.

The party will have a blue color scheme and all women-guests are being asked to wear something blue for the occasion.

was planned by the newlyweds, who will make their home at 22552 Amherst, St. Clair Shores.
