who are not going to miss the paper after such a long time without it. People are forgetting about the newspaper habit, and a lot of subscribers are going to be lost," warned Mrs. Tamaro.

"I don't know why those fellows can't get together and settle this thing so we can get the paper," said Alfred Rodgers of 14218 Eastwood.

"I haven't heard a thing about who is at fault. Television helps some, but it doesn't give much news. There are lots of things you read in the paper that you don't see on television. But a lot of people are getting used to being without a paper," warned Rodgers.

"TELEVISION DOES a good job in covering national news, but only a fair job in giving people the local news," said Lew Owens, 17101 Manderson.

"I definitely miss the paper, especially the business section and the stock market pages. The other news you can get on television.

"Printers may be the ones at fault, but the newspaper owners aren't blameless," opined Owens.

"I don't know any of the facts about the strike; I only know that I miss the whole paper," said Bob Fitzsim, 2030 N. Mildred, Wyandotte.

"WHAT'S BEING published now doesn't offer much to read. It's a waste of time."

Only two men out of the 22 people interviewed said they were not affected by the lack of a newspaper.

"I rarely had time to read it," said Fred Levantrosser of McClain Ave. in Allen Park.

"Most of the news that I am aware of is on television. The front page is the only thing I have time to look at."

"I am beginning to miss it less and less every day because I am used to getting along without it," said Ron Cooper, 20218 N. Larkmoor, Southfield.

"I WAS DISSATISFIED with their policies, as the newspapers weren't open-minded. Television reporting is also one-sided because newspapers own the stations," he said.

"I think businesses are the ones who are suffering the most, and who will be affected most in the long run," said Cooper.

Capulse comments from Detroit residents include:

Shirley Dudley of 19410 Orleans: "I miss the national news, especially the feature page. I don't think television is keeping up with the news, and I think the emergency papers are just terrible."

Mrs. Leon Stahl, 11485 Wilfred: "I miss the national news, since new on television is so condensed that you can't get it all. I'm not in sympathy with the strike—not when it affects a whole community's thinking and everyday life."

Mrs. Genevieve Wilmoth, 14877 Tuler: "I read the paper the first thing in the morning while I drink my coffee. I really miss it."

Mrs. Sarah M. Puscas, 18151 Orleans: "Without a paper it seems there is something missing from the house."

Mrs. Lawrence Maher, 10091 Cedarlawn: "I miss the whole newspaper—I hope they settle it soon."

Mrs. Edmund Kirchner, 12478 Riad: "We're used to a newspaper, and it's unfair to be without one."

Mrs. Robert L. Shelby, 3956 Bewick: "We're just lost without a paper. Television doesn't do it enough—you only see it once, where with a paper it's in front of you so you can read it over and think about it. We read everything we can get our hands on now."

Mrs. Frank J. Kilrain, 21748 Moross: "I can't see in a city this size why there has to be a strike. It's hurting the public since it came at such an inopportune time. I think it's ridiculous—so long and drawn out."

to the health, safety and welfare of the general area.

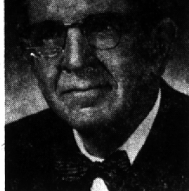

"THIS IS due to the location of the parcel with respect to the railroad bridge, traffic on Adams and the sight problem of traffic moving from south to north on Adams," Talburt said.

He added that the bridge blocks the view of the driver moving north on Adams as he approaches and crosses the bridge. He also thought there would be a definite hazard for an auto leaving the land and driving north on Adams.

House Hopeful in 65th Outlines GOP Platform

Birmingham attorney William P. Hampton, Republican seeking nomination for state representative in the 65th Legislative District, this week outlined some of the immediate problems with which the next state legislature must concern itself.

"Of major concern to the next legislature is to continue with the second stage in implementing our state constitution. The initial implementation was commenced last summer after the Constitution had been adopted.

"The first step has been accomplished; namely, the implementation of those sections which were required in order to have legislative enactments consistent with the new document which it became effective on Jan. 1, 1964.

"THE SECOND stage of implementation must be devoted to those things which should be done as promptly as possible with a deadline of July 1, 1965.

Included in this area, if elected, I would work for passage of implementing legislation in the areas of executive branch reorganization, legislative auditor general, legislative council, county home rule, inter-governmental contracts and a joint local unit functions, combination of counties into probate court districts and a bill covering the procedures, time and details of submission of the budget by the Governor as well as a clarification of the definition and handling of appropriation bills.

"The most important and needed legislation during this second phase of implementation of the Constitution are the bills dealing with the reorganization of the executive branch of government, the legislative auditor-general and the legislative council.

"ALSO ATOP the priority list is legislation aimed at reorganizing the some-140 boards, bureaus and commissions into not more than 20 principle departments."

"In view of the fact that the implementation of our new Constitution and the new laws governing our State will be of prime concern during our next several legislative sessions, it is important that the people nominate and elect a man who is qualified in this field."
