Helps Save Brother from Rattlesnake

A level-headed brother saved six-year-old Mark Smallwood from an attack by a rattlesnake Sunday. The brother, Dale M., was seen to rouse up the little boy when mother and dad, Mr. and Mrs. Ben Smallwood of 403 E. Lincoln, Birmingham, called a halt to a run for the family's two dogs by their romping six children in the Bald Mountain Recreation area.

DALE'S MOVEMENT distracted the snake, and in a split second the two boys were on their way back to the "family car," an old bus remade into a camper. Father went to the rescue when he heard Dale's cry, "a rattlesnake." He grabbed a pole from the bus and struck the nearly four-foot-long snake.
