

Mam'selle Trunk Show Due

Collection Keyed to Travelers

Betty Carol, the green-eyed blond mother of three children, looks like a campus queen and designs with the idea of making her fans look like other campus queens.

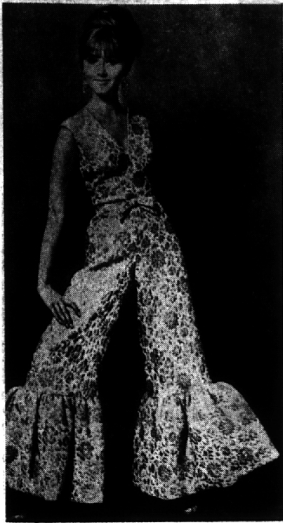

These young and provocative styles in their mood for Fall, 1964, are headed for two-day trunk showings at Jacobson's this Friday and Saturday. There will be informal modeling in the store from 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. each day.

IN HER fall collection under the label, "Mam'selle," Miss Carol has the modern woman on the move in mind. Street dresses are simple, ready to go many places in the hours from dawn to dusk. Her coats are lean and narrow or swashbuckling in their fullness.

She likes the long tunic all-hout which she has renamed the "Double-deck" and for day she stresses brown, gray or deep purple, vibrant red and green. The woven materials have great texture interest: zig zag tweeds, ribbed wools, magnified plaids, ribbed wools, double knits.

For evening her favored fabrics are velvet and brocade and she continues to produce long and short formals with airy chiffon skirts and bead-encrusted bodices.

Erickson Boat Wins Pageant Honors

By ELEANOR NELSEN

Hats off! And... three cheers to Paul Erickson of Middlebury Lane, the idea man, and all his assistants.

On Sunday, Aug. 16 the Ericksons' boat, the Liberty Belle, passed in review at the Detroit Yacht Club's annual pageant and swept to the front, the winner of all awards.

A brand-new trophy which will cover a decade of pageants will have as the first name engraved on it, the Ericksons'. Their boat, a 42-foot cruiser, was transformed into a replica of Cleopatra's barge complete with oars and three tiers.

Mr. Erickson played the part of Mark Anthony while Mrs. Erickson, riding high on a throne, was Cleopatra. The entire entertainment committee of the club acted their parts.

The men were either Roman soldiers or Egyptians and the women handmaids or graces. A part of the crew were Paul Erickson, Jr., and two of his friends, Dwayne Reilly and Paul Fritz-ching.

Climax of the exciting day was a dinner-dance held in the Detroit Yacht Club clubhouse.

THE HAROLD Hilliers of S. Cranbrook Cross Road returned home on Aug. 16 after a flying trip to Washington, D. C.

Not only did they fly to the capital city but literally around it.

As Ginger Hillier says: "If it could be walked to we walked and covered a great deal of territory."

Their host for the week end in the East was Cong. William Broomfield. Lunch in the Congressional building and pictures taken on the steps of the Capitol while being presented a flag were part of their agenda.

They were accompanied by their two sons, Mike and Jeff, who were quite impressed by the entire procedure. In reciprocation to Cong. Broomfield for his kindness, the Hilliers held a reception in their home in his honor on Aug. 26.

A number of political figures were among the guests as well as neighbors and friends.

MR. AND MRS. FRANK Smith of Middlebury Lane are looking forward to Saturday.

They will be at the Metropolitan Airport awaiting the arrival of a 5 p.m. overseas flight winging its way from Amsterdam.

Aboard will be their daughter, Barbara Jean, who has spent the summer as an exchange student. Barbara Jean, who left here on June 27, was met in Frankfurt, Germany, by the family with whom she has lived these past months. (See BOAT, 7-C)

If a person really gets from life a reasonable quantity and quality of enjoyable experiences, he certainly wants to "keep on living". Should not such a person meet the morning of every day with a reverent heart that is in rhythm with the gift of these days? Seems to me that this ought to be the goal of each of us... a sort of heaven for the "gift of life" (GRA)
