New Lady Look Makes Subtle Fashion Changes

French journalists are calling the new season that opened with the Paris collections "une saison de repous", meaning that they have not produced much news.

Except for all the talk about pants and trouser suits, this is true. There is very little that can be called new in line. A New Look though, there is—a new look given by this season's small head and long, uncluttered neck. It is quite startling the difference that the small head makes on what is virtually an old silhouette. So much so that by the second day's viewing a hair-do that was in any way "important" looks old-fashioned and a big hat, dowdy.

And it has had its effect on necklines. Collars are not the ear (and nose) covering affairs they were a year ago at this time, when the anti-freeze campaign was at its height. At most, it is a modest turn-over or when fur, the snug, round Russian kind, I should add here too, that the top look is virtually dead and as an aggressive symbol of a mood, the hefty, woolen stocking.

The feeling for ladylike, feminine styles which, despite the

Home in Troy Awaits Couple

Christ Church Cranbrook was the scene of the marriage Saturday of Nancy Baroneo and Andrew Richard Horvath. The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Chase Baroneo of Birmingham and the bridegroom is the son of the late Mr. and Mrs. Michael Horvath of Waverly, N.Y.

Nancy's gown, made in France, was of heavy satin embellished pique. A satin rose held her veil and she carried a prayer book decorated with roses and carnations.

Her sister-in-law, Mrs. Chase Baroneo, Jr., of Austin, Texas, and Mrs. Jay Baroneo of Napa, Calif. were her attendants, in moss green chiffon and carrying pink gladioli. Mrs. Baroneo's son and daughter were ring-bearer and flower girl. Philip Sealy of Appleton, Wis., was best man.

Following a reception at the church the newlyweds left for Northern Michigan. They will live in Troy.

Among local women to be honorary hostesses are Mrs. Don E. Ahrens, Mrs. William O. Bridge, Mrs. Max M. Fisher, Mrs. Thomas H. Keating, Mrs. Aloysius P. Power and Mrs. James Roche.

Forest Lakers Go Native For a Night

An "Adventure in Paradise" was the theme of the dinner dance held at Forest Lake Country Club Saturday.

Festivities began at 7 p.m. when attractive young ladies in Polynesian costumes presented arriving guests with a mysterious tropical drink and the traditional Hawaiian lei.

Guests were seated around foot-high tables on which an exotic oriental dinner was served.

Jacque Hagen's Beachcombers provided music for dancing, and hula and limbo dancers, backed by a native band, performed around a specially constructed multi-colored waterfall.

FOCAL POINT of the tropical deer featured primitive art symbolizing the legendary gods of Hawaii, Tahiti and Samoa.

Committee for the party included Mr. and Mrs. Eino Norme, Mrs. Norman Terry, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Brook and Mr. and Mrs. Harold Beech of Bloomfield Hills; Mr. and Mrs. Neil Michie and Mr. and Mrs. Harold Dietrich of Birmingham.
