L. A. FARHAT

State Attorney Post Eyed By Prosecutor

Ingham County Prosecutor Leo A. Farhat will seek the Republican nomination for attorney general at the GOP convention Sept. 19 in Detroit.

Farhat has served as president of the Ingham County Bench and Bar Society, secretary and vice president of the Ingham County Bar Association, chairman of the State Bar Committee on Criminal Jurisprudence, legislative chairman and president of the Prosecuting Attorneys Association of Michigan.

He has also served as president of the Ingham County Young Republicans and vice president of the Ingham County Republican Town Club as well as former legal counsel to the Michigan Federation of Young Republicans.

SAID FARHAT: "I have been, for eight years, directly concerned with the crime rate in this state. During these eight years, I have come to know not only how best to convict and punish those who commit these crimes but have, I believe, gained insight into the causes for the increase in the crime rate."

"Through my membership and presidency of the Prosecuting Attorneys Association, I have become aware not only of the criminal problems in Ingham County but of the problems encountered by the other prosecuting attorneys in Michigan. As president and legislative chairman for the Prosecuting Attorneys Association of Michigan, I have sought and received the cooperation and joint efforts of the prosecutors of Michigan in a program to make the Legislature and the people aware of the problems encountered in enforcing the criminal laws of Michigan."

"If nominated and elected to the office of Attorney General, I shall seek to retain this cooperation to utilize the efforts of all law enforcement agencies toward the prevention and successful prosecution of crime."

"Further, I intend as Attorney General to ask the cooperative efforts of these prosecuting attorneys in removing the causes of the increasing crime rate. My experience shows not only a desire to carry out this plan, but also shows that I can gain the wholehearted cooperation of local law enforcement agencies."

A croquet at the elegant little gambling casino in Cabourg, France, had a habit of scratching his stomach as the roulette wheel turned. Last week the police arrested him, not because he itched, but because they said he slipped a chip worth $2 into his shirt every time he scratched.

The nationwide coin shortage is haunting operators of the nation's toll roads. For bookkeeping purposes they prefer to bank all receipts and then get change as needed. The shortage of coins has prompted them to hold onto small change to guarantee their own supply, all of which makes coins even more scarce.

U-M, Asia Linked in Joint Studies

What the headlines say about Southern Asia might seem remote from The University of Michigan, but the link between Ann Arbor and Asia has acquired increasing breadth and depth since the last century.

The University's Southern Asian program is considered by university officials one of the four or five leading programs in the country.

While Southern Asia has been very much in the news in recent years, the University's active interest in that region has resulted in such activities as these:

THE CENTER for Southern Asian Studies, an interdisciplinary unit, coordinates the planning of curricular, developmental and research activities dealing with the region extending from Pakistan in the west to the Philippines in the east.

The U-M Television Center has produced a 10-part TV series on "Southeast Asia: Crossroad in Crisis," now being shown throughout the country.

This summer, with a Ford Foundation grant, the University conducted intensive seminars for teachers from other liberal arts colleges to help expand and strengthen their undergraduate programs in Southeast Asian studies.

THE UNIVERSITY is participating in the massive International Indian Ocean Expedition for studies of weather. An atomic radiation process to prevent insect infestation of wheat, developed by U-M Prof. Lloyd E. Brownell, may lead to construction in India of a prototype processing plant.

The University this term became the nation's first state-supported university to offer a course on the history of Southeast Asia.

The U-M has trained some 100 Peace Corpsmen for duty in Thailand and since 1958 the U-M English Language Institute has helped Thailand, Viet Nam, and Laos improve English instruction under a government-financed project, training more than 1,000 native

Boat Handling Courses Offered

Again this year, Flotilla 12-3 U.S. Coast Guard Auxiliary will conduct classes in "Basic Seaman-ship and Small Boat Handling" at The Community House.

The function of the U.S.C.G.A. Public Instruction Course (PIC) is to make training available to the public.

These classes are conducted by regular members of the Auxiliary (Flotilla 12-3) that give their time and energy to help other boaters and boatowners know and understand the responsibility of being in charge of a boat.

For further information residents may call The Community House.

R. M. BURGESS, 3502 Burning Bush Road, Bloomfield, commander, Flotilla 12-3, suggested that "amateur sailors today can avoid most of the mistakes other have made by merely investing a minimum time and energy to 'learn the ropes'."

The course offered includes, among other things—"How to use your Compass," "Aids to Navigation," "Rules of the Road and Seamanship."

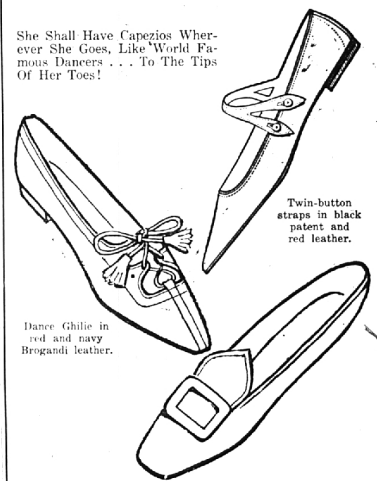

Commander Burgess went on to say that boating is a great experience, and safe boating is a pleasurable one. Early registration in this program, at The Community House is the first step toward a pleasurable safe experience.

The world's biggest jazz festival was held in Comblain-la-Tour, Belgium, operated by Joe Napoli, who was born in Brooklyn, U.S.A. He put on his first show in 1955 to get a little money to repair the town's church.

A jug of water on the seat of a Protection, Kan., woman's car allowed the sun to focus through the glass and burn a hole in the seat. She put out the fire by dumping the water on it.

IN THE ENGLANDER MANNER...

If we did as others do there would be no point to Englander's. We don't simply because we believe that little differences make the big difference in our kind of stores.

Merchandise, for instance... a little better selected in the world's finer markets... by buyers a little more devoted to discovering the distinctive and unusual.

Stores... a little more beautiful and colorful... designed to make shopping a little more exciting and intriguing.

Personnel... a little better trained to serve you... and a lot more interested in doing it well and courteously. This page points up a firm conviction... high price is not a necessary ingredient of high fashion. Nor is discernment more applicable to our studios of interior design than to our selling floors.
