Michigan Ready to Utilize Federal Anti-Poverty Funds

By ELMER E. WHITE
Special Writer

Michigan officials hope to take full advantage of Federal funds available under the new anti-poverty program.
Gov. George Romney established a 30-member human resources council soon after the war on poverty legislation was signed by Pres. Johnson.
Coordinating Federally-funded programs will be just part of this unit's job. The council was comprised of administrators from several state agencies concerned with human resources plus private citizens.

ONE STATE agency voiced its interest in anti-poverty activity even before council members were appointed.
Highway department officials said they could use 400 men in a work-training program on some 200 miles of freeways in Northern Michigan.

The proposal called for a sharp increase in the enrollment of the Department's student highway technician training program with funds largely from Federal coffers.

SOME 40 students have been enrolled in the training program since it was initiated in 1967. They work half the year for the department and attend school the remainder.

Highway officials said up to 400 young men could be given training in forestry work which could lead to careers in the field, while the state would save money and accelerate efforts to beautify the freeways.

Expansion of the training program under the Federal anti-poverty law could help fill the continuing need for men with backgrounds in soil conservation, erosion control, forest management and related fields, they said.

Department spokesmen said this need exists in local road agencies as well as in the state government unit.

MANY CONSUMERS won't even notice it, but some packages being sold in Michigan have a new look because of the state's 1964 revision of the weights and measures act.

State Agriculture Director G. S. McIntyre said the new law gives the buyer an advantage he never had before through several features.

In the past, the law required a statement of quantity in a package of food but not on such non-food items as paint, anti-freeze, varnish and oil.

Under the new law the quantity must be declared on all packaged items sold by weight, measure or numerical count. Thus, if a non-food item is sold in a container that looks like a quart, it must state the exact quantity inside.

TERMS that tend to exaggerate content quantity such as "jumbo," "king-size," "giant" or "full" are illegal under the new law, which took effect Aug. 28.

Some of the computing problems of shoppers also are cut down under the act. Each package must be labeled in terms of the largest unit.

A 20-ounce loaf of bread, for example, must be declared as one pound, four ounces, or 1 1/4 pounds.

AGRICULTURE department spokesmen emphasized that many packagers of non-food items which did not come under the old law already labeled their goods by quantity, but there were some who didn't.

The old theory was that the size of the container spoke for itself.

Among manufacturers who did not label for quantity, no law violation occurred for a semi-filled container because the law did not require this declaration.

McIntyre said the new law would work to the advantage of both the consumer and the up-standing members of industry "because the chiseler must now meet requirements that the honest member has complied with on a voluntary basis for years."

AL OBERSON SAYS . . .

Long before Columbus discovered America in 1492, the area now known as the state of Michigan was very well known to the Indians. Now if your little terrace or home is extremely hot under this sweltering sun, you too should think of Oberson when you think of insulation.
